Vanduser Boy Gets 20 Years For School Yard Rape

BENTON — Robert Melvin Bonds, 17, Vanduser pleaded guilty and was sentenced Wednesday to 20 years imprisonment for the November, 1971, rape of a Scott County girl

He was given credit for 198 days spent in jail prior to sentencing.

Bonds and four others were accused of raping a Southeast Missouri College coed while she and a male companion were parked behind Scott County High School. The girl was assaulted after her companion was forced into the car trunk at gunpoint.

Sentenced earlier this year on the rape charge were Kenny Jones, Jr., and Larry Winfield. Jones was sentenced April 19 to 20 years. Winfield received 22 years imprisonment March 10.

The other two involved in the assault were juveniles and are in the State Training School for Boys in Boonville.

Naval Pact Is Fifth U.S.-Soviet Agreement

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Russian leaders, pushing toward the heralded arms curb climax of their Moscow summit talks, gave formal approval today to the fifth American-Soviet accord signed in three days.

The latest agreement is designed to insure against dangerous confrontations between American and Soviet warships that frequently shadow each other on the high seas.

Signing the document were John Warner, U.S. secretary of the Navy and Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Russian navy and deputy defense minister.

Nixon and top Soviet leaders had wrapped up another round of summit talks about an hour before the 5 p.m. signing. They have been conferring quietly about long-range European and Asian issues dividing their countries, as well as about such topics as limitations on strategic arms.

Known as the WashingtonMoscow Naval Agreement on Prevention of Incidents On and Over the High Seas, the accord does not affect merchant ships or fishing vessels but only ships and aircraft of the two countries' armed forces.

Under its provisions, military commanders must make increased use of signals, refrain from making simulated attacks and use greater caution and prudence in approaching military units of the other country.

The fact that agreements carefully prepared for "finalization" during the President's visit were but a fraction of the summit picture was underlined by Nixon's surprise journey Wednesday evening to a country dacha for dinner and conversation with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and others. The session began about 7 p.m. and continued for five hours.

Nixon spent the morning conferring with his staff at his suite in the Kremlin, spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler reported.

Judge Will Rule On Paving Protest

NEW MADRID — Circuit Judge William L. Ragland today, after a brief hearing, took under advisement an application for a restraining order and injunction against the city of Morehouse.

The application was filed by property owners along Beech street, who object to the resurfacing of the street.

Judge Ragland is expected to rule on it soon.

City Clerk Manuel J. Taylor was the only witness called. He testified he had received a petition March 20 signed by a majority of property owners along Beech street objecting to the paving from Madison to Benton streets.

He said the city resolved April 3 to pave streets and had entered into a contract. Taylor said the cost to the property owners would be $2 or less per running foot.

The property owners, who are objecting to the street being resurfaced, said only patching and maintenance is needed.

Stabbed To Death

JEFFERSON CITY — Benjamin H. Ward, 27, of Cape Girardeau, was stabbed to death in the State Penitentiary gymnasium Wednesday night.

Ward was serving 25 years for the 1968 armed robbery of Jack Stephens Tavern, five miles south of Morley. Also serving 25 years in Jefferson City for the same offense is Raymond Booker, of St. Louis.

Warden Harold H. Swenson said Ward was dead on arrival at the prison hospital with stab wounds, one through the heart. Swenson called it a gang murder, not a killing by a single person.

He said the officer in charge of the prison yard at the time was checking another building when Ward was attacked. When the officer got back to the gymnasium, Ward was the only man left in the building.

Swenson said two suspects are being held and three others are being investigated.

Bertrand Man Slain, Wife Held

BERTRAND — Charles David Western, 33, construction worker, was shot to death at 9 p.m. in his mobile home on route one behind the Hale Auction Company.

His wife, Lillian, 32, was held in the Scott County Jail in Benton this morning for investigation of murder.

Western was pronounced dead at 10:15 p.m. at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston by Coroner Gene Nunnelee. Western was shot six or seven times by a nine-shot .22 -caliber pistol.

Western's 12-year-old son ran to a neighbor's house for help after the shooting.

Western had been arrested three times in two years. In December of 1970 he was fined $106 for driving while intoxicated. East Prairie Adopts Plan

EAST PRAIRIE — A comphehensive plan for development of the city, prepared by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, was adopted last night by the city council at a meeting with the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Ron Yersak of Malden in charge of the comprehensive plan said:

"The City council should find this plan a useful tool in guiding future development and it should be used as a legislative policy instrument by the council rather than become just another unused document.

Mayor Lloyd Hogan said the adoption of the plan was the greatest step the city has taken and predicted that in 10 years the city will be as modern and up-to-date as any town in the Bootheel if it is used.

"If not used and enforced it will only be another $2,000 down the drain," Hogan said.

The only major change in the plan was the zoning of Washington Street from city limit to city limit, 150 feet on either side, except for public property, as commercial or future commercial. The same zoning restriction will apply to Main Street from Washington Street east to the city limits.

Charleston To Vote On City Sales Tax

CHARLESTON — Opposition voiced by merchants last night failed to dissuade the city council from passing an ordinance calling for a city election on a one per cent city sales tax.

The ordinance, setting the election for June 27, was passed by a four to one vote with Councilman Wyman Beasley dissenting.

A petition requesting the council to cancel plans for the election, signed by 80 merchants, was presented by Frank Bihr, manager of the Buckner-Ragsdale store.

George Simmons, owner of Simmons quipment Company said it was an in-opportune time for a city sales tax and in his opinion such action would only split the council, Chamber of Commerce and merchants.

The state now imposes a three per cent tax on sales.

"We have backed the city council for the past five to seven years and the city has progressed in many endeavors but this city tax is a bad thing and will only divide us," Simmons said. "We know the city needs revenue but you should take a long look, reconsider and not bring this issue which the merchants oppose before the voters.

Simmons said he would spend money to oppose the passage of the tax.

Bob French, owner of French Implement company said the sales tax would cost it one-third of its net profit and in his opinion it would force the implement dealers to move out of the city.

Council Sam Story and City Manager Richard Martin each told those present the council has weighed alternatives for increasing city revenue and the sales tax would be the least painful. If the tax is defeated by voters the council have to raise water and sewer rates, increase license fees, permits and possibly implement a cigarette tax, they said.

A delegation of residents on East Byrd protested a petition which had been brougat before the council requesting the street be excluded from the summer paving program.

They were informed by City Manager Martin that the petition was not presented in time allotted for protests and that the street would be included in the program.

Bids for street paving program were opened.

City Manager Speaks

City's Pros And Cons Outlined

Like all cities, Sikeston has both its assets and liabilities, city Manager Jim Huff told the Lions Club yesterday.

Huff told the club he was a stranger and that gave him the opportunity to look at the city differently than those who have lived here a long time.

The assets, Huff said, include the city's outstanding school system, its comphrehensive development plan, the new city park to be built near the airport, wide open spaces both inside and outside the city and the widening of Main street.

Liabilities include the lack of master storm drainage and capital improvements plans, and adequate facilities for garbage disposal.

The city needs more efforts at beautification, adequate housing for everyone and more employment opportunities.

Huff said he is still reviewing the city revenue system, considering whether the city has a role to assure, housing and jobs, and trying to discover if city employes receive adequate compensation.

Huff said he is still debating whether the city should sponsor a comprehensive recreation program or leave it to volunteers --like the youth baseball league.

GOVERNMENT
INFILTRATIN?

Ted Crosby, brother of Bing, recently made the following observations on his retirement as president of the Spokane, Washington, chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution:

"Justifying the fears of the colonist, our government has grown into a monstrous organization, octopus -like, with tentacles reaching into every phase of life.

"Did the founders of this country dream that government one day would be telling the citizens where they must send their children to school? That their money should no longer be backed by silver and gold? That taxes would be levied on the thirfty to support the shifty?

"That Americans would be sent willy-nilly to fight undeclared wars they are not allowed to win? That government would infiltrate into every phase of the economy, even as the Communists infiltrate government, the churches and the schools?"

Ted Crosby earned a master's degree in English from Gonzaga University in Spokane, unlike his brother Bing, who dropped out to start crooning. Requirement for membership in the Sons of the American Revolution is an ancestor who fought in the Revolutionary War.

So now the rum-dums are shooting at the candidates for the Presidenty. I believe that the carelessness or whatever it is, the craziness or whatever you want to call it, that invades the people, is brought on by the Governors who do not kill the man when he is sentenced to death or the judges to release them or the parole board or such as that. I don't know what it is. I know this much, that my sympathies are all with the Wallace Family. Of course, I was going to vote for him. I voted for him four years ago and will vote for him again and I believe if he is not paralyzed, that there is a possibility that he might win this nomination.

CAMPAIGN DICTIONARY

As everybody knows by now, this is an election year -- from the county to the state to the national election. A lot of terms will be used during the oncoming months, and Sam Stewart of Copley News Service gave us some thought-starters, and it is as a public service some definitions are offered:

SOUND THINKING — A quality demonstrated by anyone who endorses you.

OFF THE RECORD — Print it, but heaven help you if you say I told you.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER — Inviting your friends to dinner, then charging them $100 a plate for fried chicken and cold potatoes, etc.

SLOGANDEERING — "It's time for a change" vs. "Don't changes horses in midstream."

Maybe our readers can add a few more definitions to this list, but most of these should ring a bell -- as candidates shake your hand now and shake your faith later, if they get in.

CAN'T HANDCUFF
POLICE

St. Louis County Juvenile Judge Robert G. J. Hoester has given staunch support to Missouri policemen in pursuit of their dutues, while at the same time condemning "self-appointed intellectual experts who attempt to handcuff law enforcement officers.

In giving solid support to policemen, Judge Hoester put himself 100 per cent in opposition to anyone who would attempt to undermine their effectiveness, whether by hamstringing them or by preaching hatred or distrust.

Judge Hoester's message to the Missouri Police Officers Association should serve as a big morale booster to harassed lawmen.

More importantly, his thoughts need to be understood and appreciated by the public at large. Judge Hoester has credentials that merit credibility, with wide experience presiding over criminal cases.

In capsule, Judge Hoester gave policemen this sound advice:

"Don't accept the American Bar Association's recommendation that no man can be placed in jail for more than five years.

Don't accept the thought that police should not have guns. Every policeman should carry a gun.

"Don't accept the argument that every person convicted of a crime can be rehabilitated. They can't.

"Don't accept any arrangment that takes away the tools necessary to fight the war against crime."

By rejecting the sociological opinions of the American Bar Association, Judge Hoester evidenced superior judgment.

Judge Hoester is a no-nonsense man who believes his obligation is to protect society.

He frankly admits he once sentenced a man to two life sentences and two 99-year terms because "I didn't ever want this man to get out of jail." Why? Because the man had murdered four persons without remorse.

Well-meaning persons must recognize there are some individuals who will commit crimes no matter how much love and care are lavished upon them, Judge Hoester declares. The way to protect society against such offenders is through incarceration in a penal institution, he adds.

Rightly, Judge Hoester is totally scornful of those who revile policemen as "pigs."

If there were more men of Judge Hoester's caliber on the bench, policemen would not feel frustrated at doing their job, only to have courts serve as revolving doors for criminals.

Judge Hoester is just fundamental enough to believe liberty and freedom should be reserved for those people who comply with the laws.

His concept of law and order, if carried out by others in the courts, would go a great way toward making the streets safe for the public — and for policemen.

Will, or has, the YMCA become another front group for socialist activists? Dr. Robert Harlan, the Executive Director of the YMCA's National Council, didn't say so exactly, but one got the drift when he said, in Dallas, the YMCA should "expose social problems and conditions.' and, "It is not enough to provide a kid in the ghetto [there's that word again] with sports activities. We must also focus on the factors that keep ghettos in existence." As if that pregnant statement weren't enough, the executive director said the next board meeting to be held in March in New York would vote on a "Five Year Plan" — a phrase straight out of the Kremlin. Where does all this social concern come from? Well, he said the YMCA has been getting ideas on the YMCA role from Margaret Mead and Ramsey Clark (of the socialist ADA and ACLU).

NEW YORK (AP) — Middle age is the least appreciated period of life. People often act as if they thought if they paid no attention to it, it would go away like a bad dream.

Well, it won't. On the other hand middle age is no 24-houra-day, around the clock nightmare. After they get used to it, many of its victims find middle age more enjoyable, in some ways, than youth.

You don't have to be daffy to recognize that the middle years of existence have their consoling rewards as well as their demerits.

Here are a few reasons why you shouldn't dissolve in tears on arriving at your 40th birthday:

You don't have to call up an electronic dating bureau to find out which girl would be best for you to take out some evening. Your wife will nominate herself.

It isn't necessary to start searching for a bigger apartment or a larger house if you see a stork's wing on the horizon. The stork no longer keeps your address in its address book.

You probably have become familiar with the symptoms of some kind of chronic disease with which you'll keep company in your old age. And it doesn't seem as terrible as you thought it might be.

You have lost much of the insecurity that secretly plagued your youth. Therefore you don't make a nuisance of yourself by trying to top every witty remark you hear at a cocktail party.

Unless you have become an alcoholic, you have learned to take only two last ones for the road instead of five.

Your children are either out of their teens, or near the end of them, and now and then do something thoughtful that leads you to suspect they may turn into human beings, after all. Some months you are even able to pay their phone bills without crying out to high heaven in financial agony.

There is no inclination to jump on the bandwagon for every new intolerance or promised reform that parades by your door. You may even be willing to drop some old outworn prejudice that kept you smug before.

The fact that you will probably be doing the day after tomorrow pretty much the same thing you did the day before yesterday becomes more of an assurance than a punishment.

It occurs to you that the rest of mankind is not engaged in a mass conspiracy to foil you, but that each man is more probably simply trying to take care of himself, just as you are.

You do miss some of the high excitements and keen despairs of your younger years, when your moods rode a roller coaster every day.

But you do find instead a quiet ecstasy in spending more time admiring God's tremendous architecture than in carping at His misdeeds and oversights.

All in all, there is as much about middle age to enjoy as there is that needs to be forgiven.

QUESTIONS ON
MR. HOFFA

The question of justice does not seem to be very deeply involved in the release of James R. Hoffa after he had served 4½ years of a 13-year sentence in a federal penitentiary for fraud and jury tampering. The ends of justice were substantially achieved when Mr. Hoffa, former Teamsters union president, went to jail; letting him out somewhat early does not make too much difference — except politically.

Why did President Nixon commute the sentence to time served? Presumably to win political favor from the Teamsters, and possibly other union members. What about the non-union voters made angry by Mr. Hoffa's release? No doubt the President calculated he would make more friends than enemies. Mr. Hoffa has declined to say whether he will endorse Mr. Nixon for President in 1972. We shall see what happens.——Post-Dispatch.

WORKFARE BILL
SIGNED

President Nixon has done well to sign the "workfare" bill requiring able-bodied adults on welfare to take jobs or sign up for job-training.

The new law is aimed at cleaning up abuses under the program of aid for families with dependent children. Effective July 1, work registration is required for all adults in the AFDC program except for the aged, the ill, the disabled, those in school and mothers of children younger than 6 years.

Acknowledging current economic conditions create a problem of finding jobs for many who have never been on welfare, the reform was needed to prevent chiseling by those who heretofore have refused to work.

It is not at all demeaning to require a welfare applicant to be registered for work with the Department of Labor, as well as at the welfare office that disburses checks.

President Nixon is right in saying the workfare concept reflects the national interest.

Any job for an able-bodied man is preferable to life on the public dole, the President commented.

"No task, no labor, no work is without dignity or meaning that enables an individual to feed and clothe and shelter himself and provide for his family." Mr. Nixon observed in signing the bill.

Well said, Mr. President.——Globe-Democrat.

And the day when they shall tell us —
all about the way
That they have learned to go —
Heaven's pathways show.
My lost, my own, and I
Shall have so much to see together by and by.
I do believe that just the same sweet face, But glorified, is waiting in the place
Where we shall meet, if only I
Am counted worthy in that by and by.
I do believe that God will give a sweet surprise
To tear-stained, saddened eyes.
And that this His Heaven will be Most glad, most tided through with joy for you and me. As we have suffered most.
God never made
Spirit for spirit, answering shade for shade,
And placed them side by side —
So wrought in one, though separate, mystified —
And meant to break
The quivering threads between.
When we shall wake
I am quite sure, we shall be very glad,
That for a little while we were so sad.

AD FOR WIFE

A divorce case was being heard in court. The aggrieved husband told the judge:

"I came home and there was my wife in the arms of a strange man."

"And what did she say when you surprised her?" asked the judge.

"That's what hurt the most," said the indignant husband. "She turns and says, 'Well, look who's here. Old blabbermouth! Now the whole neighborhood will know!'"

HUMILITY

A comparatively unknown, struggling, young pianist was giving his first performances in London. His fourth concert was a "sellout", but when his manager hurried to tell him the good news, he found the virtuoso huddled in a dingy corner, practicing. As he heard the report that every seat in the house had been sold, and people were clamoring for standing room, the pianist wept and said, "It's wrong. I can't take their money! I can't play at all!" He was Ignace Jan Paderewski.

RED BLITZ BOGS DOWN
DESPITE ADVANTAGE

The communist North Vietnamese, armed with Russian tanks, airplanes, artillery and missiles, are attempting to "blitz" South Vietnam and humiliate the United States while we are withdrawing our troops. They hoped to sweep through Vietnam in a blitz like Hitler unleashed on Poland in 1939 and on France in 1940. Each fell in a matter of weeks after the blitz started.

The North Vietnamese got a 6-mile advantage for their starting point for their blitz, because of the so-called Demilitarized Zone, which they had fortified for 18 years as a starting point for their invasion.

Despite all the advantages on the side of the attacker in a blitz war and despite the doom and gloom sound of the national news media reports on the Red Blitz, the North Vietnamese invasion has achieved only 21 miles of gains after passing the DMZ. The Nazi blitz of Poland made that much in a day.

The Reds are attacking in other places along the flank of Vietnam,too, from Laos and Cambodia, for example, but they are failing to make blitz war gains anywhere. Vietnam extends 675 miles from the DMZ to the far southern point in the Mekong Delta area. If it were not for the threats from the flanks through Cambodia and Laos, the 21-mile gains across the DMZ would pose little danger.

These same threats also endanger Thailand and the anti-communist areas of Laos and Cambodia, which otherwise would be highly effective allies against communism. Freedom enthusiasts can take heart in the Red Blitz bogging down. The South Vietnamese are fighting harder and against great odds; they know how many the Reds will slaughter if allowed to overrun their land. The South Vietnamese are delaying the Red blitz from sweeping through Thailand, Indonesia, Burma and the Philippines. We should all be thankful. HLH

$100 Million Meat Steal: union chiefs 'shocked' by Foreign affairs appear undisturbed my Mafia infiltration

CHICAGO — There is a sprawling union nationally headquartered here whose leaders methodically unleash fusillade after fusillade of ideological and philosophica. thunder against all evils on all fronts - across the globe -- except the underworld of organized crime.

Now it happens that thi union, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen (AFL—CIO), is the parent union of a local allegedly tied up with Mafia chiefs since "Little Augie" Pisano died a bullet-ridden big shot and Charles "Lucky" Luciano was not so lucky. They and their inheriting dons launched this thing, according to the authorities. And these same law and order men now estimate that the combination of this local, 174, biggest in the national union, and the underworld, raised the cost of meat to the people by almost $200 million a year in just one section of the country.

All this is in sworn testimony and documents in the hands of crusading local and federal investigators. Mind you, the reference is to such cities as Boston, New York , Philadelphia and surrounding areas. This means the impoverished black and Puerto Rican ghettos of Newark, parts of New England, and some of the poorest proletarian waterfronts.

This is all brought to mind by reports that a grand jury, which has been probing the union and the meat industry for about a year under the direction of a Manhattan District Attorney's Racket Bureau chief, Al Scotti, might soon bring in some indictments.

At the same time there come reports that one of this national union's vice presidents, the globe-girdling, Boston-based Clifton Caldwell, returned recently from Hanoi and said he was "shocked and scared" by President Nixon's mine-the-harbors speech.

Now it is Caldwell's privilege to be shocked by anyone and certainly his right to attack the President and denounce the war.

But it is strange that Caldwell isn't shocked and scared by some home-front wars--such as is described by an assistant U.S. attorney, Nick Scopetta, who said:

"They (the organized crime crowd of the Luchese, Gambino units) succeeded in gaining such a foothold in the industry that it is now built into and it is a part of the industry in New York as I think this present investigation is going to show."

Now this would shock a lot of people. Especially since Scopetta, once one of Al Scotti's aides, places the Boston area, which is part of Caldwell's territory, as inside the looting jurisdiction.

Also, could Caldwell and some of his fellow national officers save a little shock for what Al Scotti told a judge on April 16, 1969, after a trial of union and Mafia meat operators in the field?

"Racketeers use their bargaining power to retaliate against the witnesses. I was so concerned about that that I felt it my duty to call in officials of the international union and I apprised them of this information and I am glad to say they gave me every assurance that the collective bargaining process would not be used for that purpose (retaliation -- VR)....During this conference I told them bluntly that this local had been dominated by underworld elements as far back as I can remember and I berated them for not having done anything about it and I told them that they justified their rather spineless complacency on the grounds they dare not interfere in the affairs of the local union

"I said it is about time we became realistic and did something about it.

"They did give me some encouragement. They would do something about it. These kinds of labor officials have enabled the underworld to extend its influence in labor, in business and in industry."

If Caldwell and the other national leaders were shocked by this short speech, I find no evidence. Nor does there seem to have been any action. Yet there are some 340 meat wholesalers involved in just one section.

Yet with Scotti in the lead, it is an open secret that the whole Eastern complex now is under investigation by the Justice Dept., one of its strike forces, the FBI, the Congress and a section of the Labor Dept.

We're talking here of alleged mulcting of house money from the poorest of the poor, from welfare clients, from the subsistence in come families too, as well as those on the Park Avenues and Philadelphia Mainliners and Boston suburbs.

We find that the union chiefs' indignation, with a strange inverse rationale, is directed at the investigators and not the investigated. It is as though a private domain were being pried into by intruders. It is as though the public had become the personal property of a handful of men and those who defend the people are the culprits.

It's about time words such as those from Al Scotti shocked the national leaders as well as affairs foreign.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, holding out a promise of progress at their Moscow meeting, related an anecdote to President Nixon on the eve of his departure.

The anecdote was part of the private message that Soviet ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin delivered to the President at Camp David.

Brezhnev had a favorite story, said Dobrynin, about the traveler who asked a grizzled, old Russian farmer how long it would take to walk to the next village. The farmer grunted that he didn't know. With a shrug, the traveler started off toward the village. But as he was striding away, the farmer called after him: "Fifteen minutes."

Surprised, the traveler retorted: "But you said you didn't know how long it would take me to reach the village."

"That was before I saw how big your steps are," said the old man.

Dobrynin, quoting Brezhnev, said the Communist party chief was satisfied from the advance steps that substantial agreements would be reached in Moscow to improve Russian-American relations. Brezhnev's message was that their meeting would not be merely "cosmetic" - a word that the President later repeated to the press to express his optimism about the Moscow outcome.

His optimism was based, however, on more than Brezhnev's encourageing message. The President also had on his desk an intelligence analysis suggesting that Brezhnev's personal prestige was on the line, that he needed to produce favorable results to justify the summit meeting.

Inside the Kremlin, apparently, Brezhnev had encountered harsh opposition to inviting Nixon to Moscow. The military-industrial faction, in particular, felt the summit meeting would undermine their relations with Hanoi just as the North Vietnamese were achieving victories with Soviet equipment.

The Russian marshals were anxious to share in the North Vietnamese victories and to gain an edge over the Chinese in Hanoi. They also wanted to exploit North Vietnamese displeasure over President Nixon's visit to Peking. This would be difficult to do, it was argued, if Nixon were also invited to Moscow.

The opposition to the invitation was so strong that Brezhnev had to invoke his personal authority to overrule the marshals. When the President mined Haiphong harbor, it strengthened the opposition and caused a crisis for Brezhnev. He had to exercise all his powers to keep the summit conference from being cancelled.

The intelligence analysis suggested, therefore, that he needs a successful meeting with Nixon to justify his insistence on going ahead with it.

MAFIA MARKETEERS

Mafia-run companies with annual sales of $400 million are foisting off their products on the American housewife through some of the nation's best-known supermarket chains.

So entangled is the Mafia with the products, that their brand names should read "Cosa Nostra Cleaner" or "Crime Syndicate Suds." In fact, they bear the labels of more than a dozen widely sold items.

What has happened is that the Mafia hoodlums have gained control of the companies making the products through intermediaries called "straws" or brokerage deals. The Mafia may also maintain stretegically - placed employees within the companies.

Once the Mafia is in corporate control, its muscle men let the supermarkets know that the price of peace is to stock the mob's products prominently on the shelves.

The supermarkets, in a few cases, have resisted the threats of labor strife, arson and even murder which constitute the Mafia's favorite sales pitches.

More often, the retailers have caved in, giving the housewife products whose higher prices include the crime syndicate's cut.

To combat Mafia influence in the grocery business, Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., will hold new hearings in June on some of the supermarket products. He has already produced public evidence that A and P was unsuccessfully pressured by the Mafia to carry a syndicate-controlled detergent.

In preparation for the new hearings, Magnuson's sleuths have worked incognito coast-to-coast. We have not named the supermarkets or products to avoid giving the hoodlums a chance to scurry for cover before Magnuson summons them to testify.

Footnote: Working with Magnuson to expose the Cosa Nostra commercial interests is Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., an ex-judge.

NATIONAL GUARD
DWINDLES

With draft calls slackening off, the National Guard has fallen back on recruiting contests to keep up its ranks. Not only has the drive failed, but it appears to violate federal law.

The 113th Tactical Fighter Wing in Washington, for example, reported dismally in its newsletter that the guardsmen are still leaving faster than they're coming in.

Actually, the National Guard may want to reconsider its promises of cash and a Puerto Rican vacation for the winning recruiter-guardsman. Title 10 of the Federal Code clearly states that "no bounty may be paid to induce any person to enlist in the Armed Forces." When we queried the National Guard, they insisted the rule only applied to those coming in -- not those bringing them in.

Tuition Hikes May Strip State Colleges Of Out-Of-Staters

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The popular theory that Missouri state colleges and universities were created for Missourians could wind up a costly hot potato for legislators one day soon.

Out-of-state tuition for residents of border states went up last year and will continue to spiral, according to at least one northwestern college prediction. The result could be emptied dorms and higher costs for the resident student to make up the losses.

Tuition at Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville went to $720 a year for non Missourians this year. This fall, tuition at Northwest State will be $810 a year and on to $900 the following year.

"Ultimately, I think, outstate tuition will be raised to meet the entire cost," predicted Dr. Charles H. Thate, vice president in charge of student affairs at Maryville. The cost now is about $1,200 a year per student and rising.

One of the problems Thate anticipates with increased tuition is loss of student population. He said he expects outof-state enrollment to drop about 15 per cent this fall and those students make up 37 to 38 per cent of the total 5,600 student enrollment this year.

The next item to be hit, according to Thate's fears, will be the college dormitories.

At Northwest State, dorms were built on a long-range plan and will house about 3,200 students. They are not paid for and there are bond commitments against the property. Loss of dorm population could be a costly headache.

"Non resident students are making a capital investment in Missouri living in these dormitories," Thate said. "Over the longhaul, I think they pay their way."

Thate said the Maryville College will probably lose 400 to 500 Iowa students this fall because of the hike in tuition. He said the cost is now about equal to Iowa state colleges ($720) but the new fees next fall will put non-resident fees over the cost of going to college in Iowa.

On the Illinois border, Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau also plans to raise out-of-state tuition this fall.

Bob Foster, assistant to the president at Southeast State, said fall tuition has been tentatively set at $620 a year for outof-state students — up $220 over costs this year. A final decision on the proposed increase, he said, will be made later this summer.

The college at Cape Girardeau needs more money, Foster said.

Other state colleges and universities either plan no increase over this year's fees or have yet to decide the matter.

Tuition at Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield for out-of-state students is $900 a year and no increase is planned, according to officials.

At Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, officials said no change from the current $720 a year out-of-state tuition is planned.

The University of Missouri will discuss the matter at its Board of Curators meeting this month.

"I think there's a possibility there may be (an increase)," Harold Hume said. Hume is director of cost studies at the University of Missouri.

He said there was "mixed feeling on the board" and tuition is always a matter discussed when the budget is compiled.

Now, out-of-state tuition at the University of Missouri at Columbia is $1,420 a year. At other campusses it ranges upward to $1,469 for out-of-state students at the University of Missouri, Rolla, an engineering and mining specialty school.

Enemy Escalates Kontum Assault

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese gunners slammed hundreds of rockets and artillery shells into Kontum today in the most intense attack on that city of their two-month offensive, following the infiltration of sappers into the town.

U.S. sources said the heavy shelling appeared to indicate that the North Vietnamese were about to launch a drive to seize their second provincial capital.

Similar heavy shelling attacks forced the South Vietnamese to abandon northernmost Quang Tri Province May 1. The provincial capital of An Loc on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for 49 days but has managed to hold, though it is virtually destroyed.

Six hundred to 800 rockets and shells from captured U.S. made 105mm howitzers hit Kontum between dawn and dusk.

Early in the day, North Vietnamese sappers backed by tanks attacked the city from the south. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said that by dusk all of them had been killed, driven out or had withdrawn. But U.S. sources said that as night covered the city, some of the sappers were occupying former South Vietnamese bunkers near the airstrip.

Two assaults against South Vietnam's northernmost defense line at My Chanh, 20 to 25 miles north of Hue, were reported repulsed. South Vietnamese spokesmen at Hue said 166 North Vietnamese troops were killed by government troops and artillery in what one U.S. adviser described as a "turkey shoot." South Vietnamese losses were reported as 15 troops killed and 43 wounded.

The spokesmen also reported that two Soviet-built BTR50 amphibious personnel carriers were destroyed, marking the introduction of another new weapon to the Indochina war. The BTR50 is a 14 1/2-ton carrier with a crew of two. It carries 12 infantrymen.

At An Loc, on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, field reports said up to 4,000 civilian refugees were able to get out of the besieged city. The refugees, mostly old women and children, walked south to Tau O, a village nine miles below An Loc. They said about 50 had been killed by North Vietnamese shellings during their escape.

American planes, retaliating for the enemy offensive now beginning its ninth week, smashed the two biggest power plants and a major bridge in the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex for the first time since the 1965-68 bombing campaign.

U.S. sources said 150 to 300 North Vietnamese sappers from the 2nd Division penetrated Kontum and occupied portions of the air field, some civilian houses, a school, a Catholic seminary and the home of the French bishop of Kontum, Msgr. Paul Seitz.

The targets are located near the southern edge of the city, approximately due south from the western end of the air strip. The sappers also moved into the farming hamlet of Kapang on the southeastern outskirts of the city.

The North Vietnamese also made new assualts on the northern front above Hue and on two sides of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city. Heavy fighting was also reported on the southern front in the Saigon area as the North Vietnamese offensive began its ninth week.

Long before the North Vietnamese launched their offensive on March 30, U.S. officials said Kontum, a major provincial capital in the highlands, would be one of the chief objectives. Quang Tri, the country's northernmost provincial capital, fell on May 1, and An Loc, another provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for seven weeks.

Man Gives Up Bid To Swap Hostage For Plane

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A man who held a young woman hostage at gunpoint for several hours today in an attempt to make authorities meet demands to place a jet plane at his disposal surrendered the gun in the Dallas police headquarters, a police spokesman said.

The man agreed about an hour before he gave up the pistol at 9 a.m. to go to downtown headquarters from Love Field and negotiate with Police Chief Frank Dyson.

It appeared he still had some control of the situation in headquarters until he gave the pistol to Asst. Police Chief Paul Townsend.

A police spokesman identified the man as Virgil Lee Fuqua of Dallas.

The incident began early today when a man held up a grocery store in Waco operated by James Roberts, husband of the woman who was held hostage.

The man forced Mrs. Roberts, 20, to drive him to a Fort Worth air field to try to get a plane, and when none was available the pair drove to Dallas's Love Field, the man demanding that a jet plane be ready and fueled for him, police said.

In Dallas, the man demanded another weapon and handcuffs for Mrs. Roberts.

Meanwhile, Townsend negotiated with the man and persuaded him to leave the car in which he and the woman had been sitting with his hostage and enter an unmarked police car to drive downtown to talk with Police Chief Dyson, authorities said.

A route to headquarters was cleared and all persons except Dyson were removed from the third floor of the police station while negotiations went on. All doors were heavily guarded.

Dyson said the man still had his gun while they talked but the man made no threats and was very quiet and composed except that he became "excited about having to face up to jail."

The chief said the gunman did not appear to be on drugs or any other stimulant.

Negotiations in Dallas lasted about five hours, including the talks in Dyson's office.

Where the man who held Mrs. Roberts hostage wanted to fly was not known.

Mrs. Roberts' father, former Waco policeman Thadd Johnson, said Fuqua had a minor gunshot wound in one hand. Johnson said his daughter grabbed the pistol at one point, and the man suffered the wound in wrestling it from her.

Congress May Order Troops Out By Oct. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan says chances are good Congress will order U. S. forces out of the Indochina war by Oct. 1 in return for release of American prisoners.

But he adds "I don't think it'll do a damn bit of good . . ."

The Pennsylvania Democrat, who has turned about- face from supporting war policy to opposing it, said Wednesday he is pessimistic Hanoi would accept the terms even if President Nixon did.

Economic Indicators Up Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's leading economic indicators pointed today toward a sharply expanding economy in the months ahead.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators increased 1.4 per cent in April and, on top of that, the March advance was revised upward to 1.9 per cent.

The March revision was the sharpest increase in the indicators in a year and the April gain of 1.4 per cent was also regarded as strong advance.

Although the index of leading indicators is not regarded as a precise measure of the economy, it is supposed to shed light on the general way in which the economy is headed.

Based on the two-month increases, the trend is toward acceleration. The Nixon administration has said it now must watch the economy closely to make sure that it doesn't expand too fast and touch off a new round of inflation.

Mate Matching Machine Draws Nothing But Duds

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30 years old and have never married. People have always told me I am pretty, smart, and fun to be with. No one ever mentioned marriage. One day I became a little "adventurous" -- or perhaps panicky is a better word -- and sent my name (and check) to a scientific mate-matching foundation. I had received mailings from this "Foundation" and the letterheadds carried the names of a well-known doctor and two nationally known clergymen. I was sure these people would not be connected with anything shoddy, but I was wrong.

I was put in touch with eight "prospects" in seven weeks. Five were unemployed and looking for a woman to keep them. Two were overt homosexuals -- one offered to be my hairdresser and private secretary in exchange for marriage, if I'd let him keep his boyfriend. Another was a religious fanatic who wanted to know immediately if I would let him burn his initials on my back with a cigaret. The only "candidate" who seemed to have all his marbles had a severe physical handicap and told me with considerable anguish that he had met 30 women through the "foundation" -- most of them crazy. For these leads he has already paid $380.

I am ashamed of myself for having been such a sucker. The public should be warned about these rackets. Tell the world, will you, Ann? --Seattle Chump

Dear Seattle: I HAVE been telling the world, and I will continue to tell those who are willing to listen. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: I appreciated your boost for Recovery, Inc. For 15 years I suffered from nerves. I went to doctor after doctor, took thousands of tranquilizers, and then I read about Recovery, Inc. in an article by Dr. Walter Alvarez. I learned that a group was holding meetings four blocks from my home.

The people there weren't interested in anybody's past -- only the future. They taught me not to be afraid of my feelings, how to react to nervous people who blow up, how to find the courage to go back to shopping, driving and living. You learn you won't die if your heart beats fast or if you can't catch your breath, or if you get waves of nausea and spells of weakness.

All it cost me was 25 cents for the coffee and cake after the meeting. Some bargain for a whole new life, after 15 years in hell. Tell it again, Ann. --M.M.M.

Dear M.M.M.: I will. Write to the national headquarters and find out where the meetings are being held in your town. The address is: Recovery, Inc.; 116 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Dear Ann Landers: This is my husband's first year with a firm that will soon have their annual barbecue. Wives and husbands are not invited. It's strickly for employees.

We both work and have precious little time together. I resent this policy and feel that companies should promote togetherness at home instead of making trouble between husbands and wives. My husband says he is going, regardless -- and we've argued about it. I told him if he goes it will be the straw that broke the camel's back. Comment, please -- Lana

Dear L.: That camel didn't have a very strong back, Lady. Although I agree that company parties that exclude mates are bummers, if that's the way his company does it, be a good sport. A wife who would give her husband an ultimatum over such a trivial matter is grossly immature.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request to this newspaper.

Heat Sensing Device Used To Detect Breast Cancer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heat-sensing devices developed to stalk the enemy in Vietnam are being used in a medical hunt to spot breast cancer before it's too late.

The new technique is so promising that some doctors think medicine may now have a way to conduct mass screening of women, a project they believe might eliminate the disease as a major killer of American women.

Estimates are that this year 71,000 women will learn they have breast cancer and 30,000 will die from it.

The heat-sensing instruments measure infrared radiation. In Vietnam they're used in weapon systems and for enemy detection at night. In medicine, they've become part of a machine called a thermograph.

"We feel that thermography is going to prove to be of the same value in breast cancer detection as the Pap smear in cervical cancer," predicted Dr. Alfonso Zermeno, a biophysicist at the M. D. Anderson Hospital here where more than 3,000 women have been studied with thermography since the mid1960s. Other doctors have expressed reservations about thermography.

Mass screening of women for cervical cancer using the quick, inexpensive and easy to administer Pap smear has brought a dramatic reduction in the disease in recent years. Cervical cancer was a leading killer of women 30 years ago.

Doctors have recognized for some time that early detection of breast cancer through mass screening is a secret to conquering the malady, which particularly strikes women over 40. But the necessary devices have been lacking.

Even the most skillful doctor's fingers can't locate a tiny, new tumor. An X-ray technique called mammography can spot tumors, but it has limitations, is expensive and controversy - ridden because of the radiation involved.

The principle involved in thermography is simple. For some reason cancer tumors generate more heat than surrounding body tissues. This heat is radiated outward from the body as infrared radiation. It will show up on an infrared scanner just as the heat from an enemy truck engine in Southeast Asia will appear. The thermograph, which sits on a tripod and looks like a portrait photographer's camera, measures only the body's natural radiation.

Not all doctors are ready to accept thermography, however.

And even its most avid proponents warn it should be used in a mass screening program only in conjunction with a physical examination of the breasts either by a doctor or a highly trained paramedic.

Thermography's detractors argue that it still isn't sophisticated enough and that some breast tumors can slip through.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Dinner Hour Kibitzers Are Her Pet Peeve

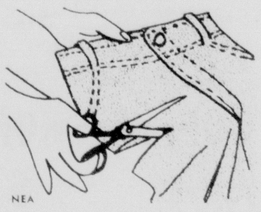
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—One of my Pet Peeves is with friends who take advantage of the hospitality of other friends by barging in at the dinner hour, walk into the dining room or kitchen and refuse the invitation to join the family for dinner or even a cup of coffee. They simply stand by the table chattering away and ruining the meal for the entire family. This has happened to me so frequently and I do not know how to offer an excuse that will make the "friend" understand that we would appreciate her consideration by sitting down in the living room for the time being. Worst of all, these people consider themselves socially well-mannered.—MINERVA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I do wish some reader would tell me how to soften up a box of raisins after they have become hard and are stuck together.—MRS. S.

DEAR POLLY—Never throw away scuffy old jeans. Be a jean-ius and recycle them into funky catch-all totes. Cut off jeans at the crotch. Turn top part inside out and stitch together at the bottom. For straps, lace strong ribbon or cord around the side belt loops and sew ends together. This will be a real money saver. —GLORENE



DEAR POLLY — I have the perfect answer for Kay who has the problem with the scratchy zipper in the back of her sweater. I buy one-inch-wide velvet ribbon (Polly's note—If the sweater is washable, buy the washable-type velvet ribbon), cut it to cover the entire length of the zipper. Place over the zipper with the fuzzy side next to the skin and baste or stitch side to one side of the zipper tape and the torture ends. This is so easy and so comfortable.—M. C.

McGovern Ahead Of HHH In 2 Surveys

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern would run slightly better than Hubert Humphrey as a Democratic challenger to President Nixon, according to two nationwide surveys taken by the Gallup Poll.

The President, however, continues to hold a wide though reduced lead over both McGovern and Humphrey, the Gallup Poll said Sunday.

In the latest Gallup survey, completed in early May, Nixon holds an 8-point lead over McGovern and an 11- point lead over Sen. Humphrey.

"But this difference cannot be considered statistically significant," according to the Gallup Poll.

"In the earlier of the two most recent surveys, McGovern also ran as strongly as Humphrey against Nixon.

"Sen. McGovern has demonstrated for the first time that he is as strong a vote-getter as Sen. Hubert Humphrey in test races against President Nixon."

The poll completed in early May showed Nixon winning the support of 43 per cent of registered voters, to 35 per cent for McGovern and 15 per cent for Gov. George C. Wallace.

Nixon wins the support of 45 per cent in the latest survey, to 34 per cent for Humphrey and 15 per cent for Wallace.

The results are based on interviews with 1,180 voters in more than 300 localities across the nation.

Acorn Ridge Has More Strawberries

ACORN RIDGE — Acorn Ridge may have been misnamed.

It could instead, have well been named "Strawberry Ridge" or "Peach Ridge," and perhaps have been closer to the fact.

Right now, small Acorn Ridge, home to two or three dozen people, is alive with activity this week. Acorn Ridge is thriving.

The reason for the activity — Strawberries, and plenty of them. Hillcrest Farms, operated by Loyd McDonald, is located on the east edge of Acorn Ridge, and the eight acres of strawberries are corwsed with pickers, young and old.

The store and service station is now closed in Acorn ridge, and some of the houses stand empty, but the outstanding soil around the community has given rise to a major "industry" of sorts -- some of the finest strawberries and peaches in Stoddard County.

Nestled in the gently rolling hills west of Bloomfield on Route J, Acorn ridge 'goes way back" in county history, according to the residents today.

Like many of the smaller county communities surveyed during the past months by the Dexter Messenger, the early history of Acorn Ridge has been muddled by time. Little of the early history of the smaller towns was ever written down, and was only passed along with word of mouth through families that lived in the areas.

What history of Acorn Ridge is available says the Stoddard County community was founded in the early 1800's and was once a bustling town -- with four grocery stores, three blacksmiths, two doctors, a barber shop, saw mill and grist mill.

It was a popular stop for travelers going from western Stoddard County to Bloomfield.

The town's Methodist Church was founded, after a family named Tweedy donated an acre of land in 1893. A modern church stands today on the same spot of land.

But, today, when people think Acorn Ridge they think of strawberries or peaches -- very seldom do they think of acorns.

GIGANTE
by Sidney Mandel
(Avon W319/$1.25
352 pp.)

The robust life of an all-powerful tycoon in the tawdry world of Las Vegas nightlife is the focus of Sidney Mandel's original Avon publication. Born of immigrant parents and raised to respect the power of a buck, Mario Gigante uses his body's strength and sensual desires as tools to build an empire of enormous wealth and vast, incredible power. Gigante's got the fast money, the influence and the clinging women.

But when a man has everything he could possibly need, he usually wants more. Gigante wants someone he can't buy and after he sees her in a bawdy Las Vegas stage show, an explosion rocks that center of greed and deadly ambitions.

Veterans Failing To Take Free Schooling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between three and four million veterans of the Vietnam war era have failed to pick up a $6,300 educational windfall waiting for them, Veterans Administration statistics show.

In an effort to induce veterans to use programs to acquire an education or improve job skills, the American Association of Junior Colleges and the American Legion have organized Veterans Outreach, a program to contact each returning veteran and make him aware of the opportunity.

After World War II the GI bill provided tuition, books and a living allowance for veterans, which increased if they were married. The present veterans law pays $175 a month for a maximum of 36 months, or $6,300 total, to attend school or get on-job training. There are bills pending in Congress to up the ante to at least $200 a month.

Since 1965, more than 5.5 million veterans eligible for educational benefits have been discharged, the association said, but only about two million have used them.

Educational benefits are the legal right of every veteran for eight years after discharge, the AAJC said, but because of the law's wording any veteran, even one discharged as far back as Jan. 31, 1955, has until May 31, 1974, to pick up the benefits.

The association-Legion program will work this way: The legion will provide 400 junior colleges with the names of servicemen discharged each month in their area. Schools using vet-students will contact each returning GI and urge him to come to the school for counseling and testing.

Dr. John P. Mallan, director of program services and veterans at the association's headquarters, said about 72,000 men are released from the services each month.

Mallan estimates that 20 per cent of returning servicemen are not high school graduates and that another 30 per cent are in need of some formal education or training to qualify for civilian jobs.

End To Secrecy In Government Sought

JEFFERSON CITY -- A major public interest organization today announced the kick- off of a statewide petition drive that would, if ratified by the voters in the November General Election, open the meetings of any public governmental body to the public and also would require that the votes of public officials be fully and accurately recorded.

The Citizen's Lobby, headed by Carl M. Wilson, chairman, and Raymond A. Appleton, director, is distributing petitions to civic groups and thousands of individuals in all of Missouri's 10 congressional districts in an attempt to secure the necessary signatures to place the constitutional amendment on the November ballot. More than 92,000 signatures must be gathered from seven of the ten congressional districts, representing at least eight per cent of the number of persons who voted in the last Gubernatorial election.

In a statement issued today, Wilson said he felt the petition drive "is one of the single most important issues facing the citizens of Missouri during this crucial election year."

"The State Legislature has chosen to bypass this issue for reasons best known to the individual legislators who opposed a bill similar to the proposed amendment during the last session. It is now up to the people of this state tod ecide whether they want laws affecting them in their everyday lives to be decided behind closed doors," Wilson said.

The required amount of signatures must, by law, be submitted to the Secretary of State no later than July 6, 1972, four months before the November general election. Wilson urged every concerned citizen in the state to sign the petitions and "do everything humanly possible to see that the voters are given a chance to pass this vital issue in November."

The proposed constitutional amendment defines a public governmental body as being supported in whole or in part by public funds or which expends public funds, and also includes any agency, board, bureau, commission, committee, department, division, or subdivision of any branch of state government, county, municipality, and school district.

The proposed legislation, however, would not affect judges or juries in the deliberation of a verdict, or certain litigation which would violate the civil rights of any individual, Wilson explained. He added that several legislators, civic and professional groups, have endorsed the proposed amendment.

Wilson stated, "Although many private citizens have already financially assisted this petition drive, additional funds are still needed to continue effectively.

"We have launched our statewide petition drive to eliminate the secrecy that has clouded and colored many of the decisions that have been made not only at the state level, but also by our school boards, city councils and other major policy making bodies at all levels of government," he added.

Wilson stressed that the petition drive is being conducted "on a completely non- partisan basis," and urged all citizens of Missouri to "demand and work for an end to the kind of governmental secrecy that has for many years been detrimental to the conduct of good, efficient and honest government."

He continued, "The presence of the public must be felt at all governmental meetings in which legislation and policies are decided upon which affect us all. There is no doubt that any decision made under the public eye will tend to be far more objective, and certainly less apt to be made ir order to serve the selfish interests of some special economic groups applying pressure to influence our laws."

While the petitions are currently being circulated throughout the state, Wilson suggested that any citizen or organization wishing to help in this effort should contact the Citizen's Lobby by mail at P. O. Box 833, Jefferson City, or by phone at area code 314 635-0121.

Burlison Denounces Gunplay

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Rep. Bill D. Burlison, in a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives, Tuesday, denounced the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

The Congressman from Missouri's 10th District said:

"Yesterday's attempted assassination of Governor George C. Wallace, a leading contender for the Democratic nomination for President, marks a turning back of the clock in a most tragic fashion. We have all prayed that the loss of the Kennedys and Martin Luther King, Jr. to the assassin's bullet in the 1960's marked the end of a chaotic and murderous political epidemic in American political life. We had hopes of a more healthful climate for the decade of the '70's. Apparently, this was not to be.

"All decent people mourn this tragedy. Not only do we sympathize with the Kennedys, Kings and Wallaces. The real concern must be for the very spirit and moral fiber of our system. It epitomizes the decay of our system, or our people, or both.

"It is difficult to prescribe a remedy inasmuch as the cause remains so elusive. Is the problem connected with a breakdown in our legal system and more specifically that of criminal law? Our constitution is said to call for "speedy justice". Yet it can be convincingly argued on the basis of past examples that his murder or attempt thereof will not be prosecuted, tried and appealed with either "speed"or "justice" to society. It might be argued perhaps with equal sincerity and rationale that the cause is more intangible and lies in our refusal to give necessary attention to the sociological components of our society.

"Mr. Speaker, it is not my purpose here, nor is there time, to explore the reason for our sickness. Suffice it to say that it is absolutely essential that we recongize that the sickness indeed does exist. Let us not pause nor rest until we have found the cause or causes and then call upon all the scientific, social and politcal ingenuity at our disposal to apply the remedies. If each of us will accept such a commitment, I can then see a bright and shining national future emerging from the dawn. But if we refuse the commitment, it is my fear that our nation may be in its twilight, slowly submerging into darkness, that signals the end."

Going To College No Guarantee Of Good Job

NEW YORK (AP) — "Go to college son, get a good education and you'll always have a good job." That counsel has been given to millions of young Americans.

The assumption is made that a good education equals a good white-collar job and security, while a poor education means much less pay in a blue-collar job and a much greater likelihood of unemployment.

Shrewd observers of employment trends now realize that while this is often so, it isn't necessarily so. Blue-collar workers are capable of making "big" money, while some professionals are without jobs.

Moreover, as mobile Americans seek to scramble up the ladder via education, the competition for professional and technical jobs might grow stiffer, perhaps even leaving less competition for more menial jobs.

In the three years from February 1969 to February 1972, according to the Labor Department regional office here, unemployment among professional and technical workers rose far more rapidly than among all workers.

It isn't that the opportunities aren't opening up, it says. The real explanation is that each year there are many more people trained for these jobs, making it possible for employers to be choosy.

The Labor Department cites figures which indicate that during the 1970s some 10.5 million persons will be seeking jobs typically held by college grads. However, the growth of job opportunities for them will total only 10.4 million.

This close balance between supply and demand, it is expected, will probably produce a job market heavily in the favor of employers.

Suppose the applicant is successful. What then is likely to be the determining factor in continued upward mobility or advancement? According to a University of Michigan professor, it could be a stable marriage.

John E. Tropman, social work professor, measured the advancement of 6,000 males between the ages 45 and 54. The men who progressed the furthest, he found, were those who had remained married to their first wives.

The second most successful group was those who had remarried. And far behind, he says, were the men who had been divorced, separated or who had become widowers.

Strike Hurts Interstate Sales

KANSAS CITY -- Sales and earnings for Interstate Brands Corporation for the 16 weeks ended Apr. 22, 1972 were adversely affected by a strike at one of the corporation's largest plants, according to the first quarter report issued today by Ernest B. Hueter, president and chief executive officer.

Net income for the quarter was $800,130, a decrease of $347,821 from the $1,147,951 reported for the same period a year ago. Earnings per share were 34 cents compared with 49 cents a year earlier.

Despite the strike, sales reached $85,912,708 -- up from $79,832,899 -- an increase of $6,079,804 for 1972.

"The decline in earnings is attributable primarily to a strike of 26 days' duration at our large Emporia, Kans., cake plant which distributes products from the Canadian border to Texas," Hueter said.

"Also contributing to the decline were increased operating costs, principally labor, without sufficient offsetting price increases." Mr. Hueter explained that, while the Price Commission approved reasonable price increases for a number of markets served by Interstate, the company was not able to effect some of these authorized increases because of competitive reasons.

Census Change

The 1970 census differed from all previous census takings in that Americans were counted by mail. This was the first time a 10-year census made extensive use of the mail.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Humphrey All-Out To Bag California

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA)

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's strangely limited, high-risk presidential campaign strategy is puzzling some veteran Democratic politicians here in the West and around the nation.

Though aides to Sen. George McGovern still fear some kind of last-minute Humphrey effort in the May 23 Oregon primary, the Minnesota senator's schedule indicates heavy concentration on California from here on.

The rationale for ignoring Oregon and handing it to McGovern is, of course, simply that the vote prize for victory in this primary is only 34 national convention delegates.

While some party leaders accept that rationale, most are astonished at Humphrey's seeming abandonment of a full-fledged campaign for the 278 delegate votes in New York (248 to be chosen in the year's last primary on June 20).

This really means that Humphrey is risking all his chips on the June 6 California test, where 271 votes go at one stroke to the winner of the statewide plurality.

This strategy contrasts notably with earlier Humphrey reasoning. There was a time when he talked of waiting out the early tests and plunging into the "late ones"—in which category he placed Oregon, California and New York.

The peril in this much more selective approach in May and June is obvious. He could do reasonably well in the quest for New Jersey's 109 delegate votes in a primary the same day as California's. But otherwise he does not seem to be building toward real backup strength in the event his California bid fails.

Here is the argument given by a top Humphrey manager for not making an all-out effort for New York's massive delegate bag:

"In New York, the candidates' names are not on the ballot. It is not a measure of popularity . . . It the names were on, we'd go in their with both hands and both feet."

New York indeed does not have a preference test, nor can delegate candidates indicate their presidential choices on the ballot. But those choices can be advertised in the media, and McGovern will be doing just that with the slates he has filed in 37 of the state's 39 congressional districts.

The quoted Humphrey manager observes that in New York some delegate prospects have filed who are either uncommitted or favorable to other candidates (Muskie, Chisholm, Jackson). Some of these are rated friendly to Humphrey, and if victorious on June 20, are considered possible Humphrey votes should he meantime win California. But in some districts McGovern people are unopposed.

To gauge Humphrey today, you have to set the New York decision alongside the one on Oregon and the failure of the Humphrey forces to establish a vigorous organizational presence in the mountain states.

One western Democrat well acquainted with all this territory finds this inactivity baffling. Some Humphrey staff people are themselves saying privately it has been a mistake not to contest more heavily in these and many other nonprimary states.

Humphrey doesn't say it, but he really is counting on the politics of magic—of winning California and a few other key places and hoping these triumphs will spread a contagion across the country that will flood out McGovern's nationwide grass roots labors.

Scouts Undergo Modernization

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Say goodbye to the old Boy Scouts. Come September they'll be known only as Scouts and many will be sporting bright red berets.

Cub Scout den mothers also will get a new look that includes miniskirts and hot pants as official uniforms.

The Scouts, in convention here, are not only modernizing the uniform, but initiating major changes that will give Scouts a new im ge and more leadership responsibility that is intended to better prepare them for urban life.

The traditional Boy Scout Handbook is being rewritten to reflect contemporary life and problems. Scouts in the inner city will be taught how to treat rat bites as well as snake bites and how to negotiate a subway system as well as a mountain trail.

"If Scouting is to make the kind of contribution to this country over the next decade that it has for the past 60 years, it must be sensitive to the real needs of our youth everywhere," said Alden G. Barber, national chief scouting executive.

More than 4,000 Scout executives were here for the week-long 62nd annual convention.

The word "Boy" is being dropped because a two-year study found that youths were being turned off by it, a Scout official said. The organization, however, will retain the name Boy Scouts of America.

The study also found that Scouts wanted a more modern uniform, more decision-making responsibility and a more flexible system of advancement.

The red beret is already being worn by some inner city troops and its use will be optional. A troop may elect to wear the field cap or even the traditional Smokey-the-Bear hat. The scouting spokesman said, "I have a hunch the beret is going to be very popular."

The neckerchief also becomes optional wear in favor of a casual open collar and the trousers are being restyled along contemporary lines without the red piping on the pockets. Scouts 14 and 15 years old can elect to wear Explorer-type green uniforms instead of khaki.

The merit badges are being redesigned so that all will be oval and Scouts not interested in camping can pick from such fields as atomic energy, water skiing, railroading and radiotelevision.

Bragg City Gets First Tax Money

BRAGG CITY — Gas tax money, payable to Bragg City in Pemiscot County, has been accumulating in the Missouri State Treasury since 1962 and a check owed to the community has finally found its way home.

State Rep. Vic Downing, upon request by Carl A. Norfleet, supervisor of the Bureau of County Tax, delivered a check to Douglas Bowling, city treasurer of Bragg City, for $12,179.23.

The reason Bragg City has not been receiving its gas tax money, although incorporated, the town has not had any elected officials since 1931—that is until the city elections April 4 when residents of the town finally elected city officials again.

In 1962 Missouri adopted a sharing plan where cities of 200 or more population receive a part of gasoline tax revenue collected by the state. But because Bragg City had no city officials then, there was no one for the state to pay. A revenue official asked the state attorney then if he could ignore Bragg City. The answer was no. So in Jefferson City, when Bragg City's gasoline tax allocation was figured each six months, a data processing card was pulled from the computer and a red line drawn through the words Bragg City and a note of "no check" was made on the card. This procedure has now come to an end.

Bragg City abandoned city officials this way. In the late 1920s, Bragg City approved an $8,000 bond issue to dig a water well. The well was started but on May 15, 1931, the Bank of Bragg City, which held the city's money, closed its doors, as did many banks during the depression.

The city was unable to meet its obligation and defaulted on the bonds. The mayor and all other city officials resigned. Since that time, the town has never elected any new officials fearing that, should it do so, the bonding company would bring suit for its money.

But now, almost 41 years later to the day, Bragg City's new government will get a boost with the check, representing a big step in their come back.

In the city elections April 4, Jerry Jackson was elected the town's first mayor in over 40 years when he polled 48 votes. Bryan Harwell and Harry Gurlen Jr. were elected north ward aldermen with 24 and 2 votes respectively and Ackland Hanks and Douglas Bowling were elected south ward aldermen with 21 and 23 votes respectively.

All the city officials elected were unopposed for office.

Hanks, one of the south ward aldermen, commented he thought it was a good thing for Bragg City to receive the money but he didn't know what the town would do with it.

"We'll probably put the money in the bank," he said. "Bragg City is pretty well run down and there's not much to build toward."

Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma Border Marker Seldom Seen

GALENA, Kan. (AP) — Almost hidden down the tree-lined gravel road, but within sound of the Will Rogers Turnpike traffic, is the seldom-seen marker that locates the intersection of three states.

It took the Army five and one-half months to find the exact spot more than a century ago. It was two-thirds of a century later before the government built the monument that now is seldom seen.

Today, three of the markers on the four-sided monument have been taken off. The fourth one--which is believed to have given the date the southern edge of Kansas was surveyed in 1957--has been broken and is partly gone.

Broken glass and empty beer and pop cans are strewn along the base of the monument, dropped by persons who came here.

The monument itself is sturdy. It is a 10-foot native rock monument located a few feet off the gravel road which winds off from U.S. 166 at the corner of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Actually, the monument is 50 feet west of the exact junction because this junction was found to be in the center of the roadway.

A farmhouse is located just a short distance from the marker.

And although thousands of cars and trucks speed past on the nearby turnpike in northeast Oklahoma there is no indication of the monument. Unless you knew where to go, it would not be found.

In 1856, Congress ordered a survey of the southern boundary of the Kansas Territory. Records show the southern boundary followed the 37th parallel north, extending west from the western boundary of Missouri.

A military survey party commenced the job May 1, 1857, and work was completed Oct. 29 that year.

House Probes Staging Of Television News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pickled sea animals, kids drinking "pop wine," sales of dynamite, and a governor's special speech for a late-arriving film crew figure in a House probe into the degree of staged TV news.

These are examples of what worn witnesses described Thursday as public deceptions in telecast news.

"It's our job to police this (broadcasting) industry and make it a better industry," said Chairman Harley P. Staggers, D-W.Va., of the House Commerce Committee.

In two days of hearings, a Staggers' investigating subcommittee has heard testimony and focused on West-Coast and national-network operations.

All but one of the nine persons appearing under oath Thursday talked about the Columbia Broadcasting System and the CBS-owned Los Angeles station, KNXT. The other witness, Loren Colwell, security agent for the Los Angeles city school districts, complained about the way an American Broadcasting Co. crew from KABC, Los Angeles, covered a student protest in 1970.

Past and present CBS or KNXT cameramen and soundmen were among the chief witnesses. The name of CBS correspondent Terry Drinkwater came up in connection with a 1970 dynamite-buying story and a 1971 program about the popularity of so-called "pop wine" among the young in California.

A CBS spokesman said newsstaging practices are against network policy, and added Drinkwater has been suspended by CBS news for a total of six months without pay because of the dynamite and wine stories.

Stanley Haberlach, of Portland, Ore., a dynamite distributor, said a purchase sequence filmed at his store and carried on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite "was strictly staged throughout the whole thing." CBS soundman Floyd Jack Reynolds also said it was staged.

Roy Gardner of Las Vegas, Nev., former contract soundman with CBS, said his crew arrived late in Bedford, Ind., for a speech by then-Gov. Roger Branigin of Indiana during the 1968 presidential primary.

The governor went along with the crew's request that he repeat a few minutes of his speech for the benefit of the TV camera, Gardner said. "He started when the light went on and stopped when the light went off," Gardner said.

KNXT soundman Donald Keener said pickled sea animals obtained from a university lab were filmed in 1968 with the implication they were water pollution victims.

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. (AP) — An old Japanese proverb goes, "Many paths ascend Mount Fuji, but at the peak one sees the same moon."

As a result of this reasoning, many Japanese list affiliation with more than one religion, a practice that statistically makes Christianity seem more widespread there than it actually is, writes the Rev. Morgan Vittengl in Maryknoll magazine.

Coon Dog Trial Ends In Out Of Court Settlement

VIENNA, Ill. (AP) — The great coon hound trial that has enthralled this Southern Illinois community for months ended today with an out-of-court settlement.

V. I. Johns of Creel Springs and Lee Faulkner of Vienna each claimed custody of a prize-winning dog, but a long court battle with the hound nearly always present in the packed Circuit Court room ended in a hung jury in February.

A new trial was to start today. But the costs were mounting and a settlement was made. Johns agreed to pay Faulkner $1,000 for the hound.

Faulkner had claimed he lost the dog while hunting in 1968. Johns contended he bought the dog in Indiana.

Faulkner said he never suspected Johns of theft, but thought Johns bought the dog from someone who had stolen or found it.

What's The Law?

Marijuana Seeds Within The Law

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

If ignorance was bliss, Billy was in heaven. The only thing he knew was to run around with a wild bunch of kids and to sow his wild oats. When he tried to sow another kind of seed, however, a marijuana seed, his bliss blistered into trouble with the law. He was picked up by a couple of detectives and charged with illegally possessing marijuana.

Battling the case in court, Billy rested his defense on a technicality.

"My arrest was premature, " he argued, "since I didn't have any marijuana. What I had was marijuana seeds. And, since anybody knows that the most ambitious seed can go to pot, I might never have had any marijuana. Consequently, I can't be convicted."

"It's a good argument," conceded the prosecuting attorney, " but it won't work. The evil of marijuana is in the seed. And, to try to distinguish between the seed and the plant is like trying to separate Dr. Jedyll from Mr. Hyde. It simply can't be done. Consequently, Billy's guilty as charged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Billy of illegally possessing marijuana?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that marijuana seeds do not contain a narcotic substance and cannot be used in the usual way to obtain a narcotic substance and cannot be used in the usual way to obtain a narcotic effect. Therefore, possessing marijuana seeds does not amount to possessing marijuana illegally. (Based upon a 1966 Arizona Supreme Court Decision)

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Move Helps Avoid Allergens

New Home Can Ease Allergies

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am pleased to discover you in Toronto's new Sun, for I enjoy reading your column. I developed an allergy in 1956. I am allergic to ragweed, trees, grass, molds, and house dust. The desensitization injections have not been successful and I have had four asthma attacks, and subsequent hospitalizations since the spring of 1970. My seasonal allergies have become a year-round asthma problem. The doctor advises that I relocate to a drier and more steady climate. Since ragweed is my main problem I am contemplating moving to Okanagan Valley in British Columbia on a temporary trial basis. According to a booklet from the Canadian government this area is ragweed free. Although Arizona is supposedly an ideal climate I am not sure the high temperatures would be agreeable with me for I prefer a moderate climate. I am 45 and asthma and blood pressure are traditional in my family.

Dear Reader—First may I say that I am pleased to welcome you and the other new readers of Toronto's new Sun.

Individuals who have allergic asthma often do better in a climate free of the allergen. If your problem is simply ragweed, your move would benefit you. In general the areas of the world free from ragweed are almost anywhere west of the Rockies, high altitudes such as the mountains in Colorado, Wyoming, the southern tip of Florida, Europe and South America.

You also say you have trouble with grass and tree pollen. Individuals with these problems often don't gain much by a change in climate. The best approach is to test your planned new area.

Individuals allergic to household pets and animal products sometimes improve markedly by eliminating pets, feather pillows, and items containing animal substances. Individuals who have house dust problems should eliminate things that contribute to collecting dust. This includes stripping your bedrooms of carpeting, getting rid of drapes and heavy furniture, and maintaining careful cleaning. It might be well to have one room in the house that is relatively bare. Use it to isolate yourself from house dust.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

My cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life. (Psalm 23: 5-6)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for fresh hope and new insights that make it impossible for life to grow stale for those who love Thee. May we live each day with bright expectancy, praying as Thy Son, our Savior, taught us: "Our Father, who art in heaven . . . Amen."

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Port Isabel-Brownsville area is the nation's second leading fishing port in terms of value of catch during 1971, according to U.S. Department of Commerce.

Commercial fishermen brought in $22.8 million worth of fish last year. The number one port was San Pedro, Calif., with a catch of $58.4 million.

RAY CROMLEY

Dope, Gambling Are Crime Keys

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

A number of private and government studies now seem agreed no real dent in crime in this country can be achieved until illegal gambling and heroin can be brought under control.

Illicit gambling brings $20 billion a year to finance the syndicates and bankroll loansharking, the infiltration of legitimate business, prostitution and a host of other illegal pursuits.

The process snowballs. Loanshark victims are pressured into theft and hijacking. Infiltrated "legitimate" firms are used for distributing stolen goods.

One recent study says flatly the criminal justice system's inability to curb urban crime can, in many respects, be attributed to heroin addiction. Some criminal court judges have found that 75 per cent of all the cases they try involve defendants with a history of heroin use.

It is not news that many, perhaps most, heroin users must turn to crime to support their habit.

But with these conclusions on gambling and heroin at hand, it is strikingly evident that, to date, very little headway has been made in drying up either.

Several states have experimented with legalized lotteries, off-track betting and other forms of government-controlled gambling. Thus far there is no convincing evidence these states are successfully competing with the numbers men and other syndicate types. For one, no way has been found whereby the state can match the handy neighborhood runner, the ease of credit (backed by enforcers) and the secrecy of the illegitimate operator (which permits tax evasion).

Probably more concentrated attacks on the crime syndicates have been carried out these past few years than at any time in the past. Arrests have reached new records. But there is no indication that snydicate strength has been sapped.

The studies suggest, in fact, that the underworld is growing in power.

The heroin situation is no brighter. Despite some highly-skilled police work, nationally and internationally, some brilliant diplomatic negotiations with Turkey, Laos, France and other lands, and truly extensive penetration of some international heroin syndicates, there is no sign the drug traffic is broken or going into a decline.

All this is true despite the strategically sensible decision to concentrate on the major syndicates and on finding the weak links in those syndicates. Thus the effor has not been spread overly thin by going after ever pusher and user, which would have been like dippi water out of the ocean with a teaspoon.

What we must have now is a highly-concentrated research effort, comparable with sending a man to the Moon, aimed at discovering just what would be effective in breaking up illegal gambling and the heroin trade.

Should this research cost $50 billion over the next decade, it would, if successful, be cheap "at double the price." For, as noted above, illegal gambling and heroin alone add up to an estimated $26 billion a year and provide the base for other crimes costing the citizen several tens of billions of dollars a year additionally in direct costs and more billions in public and private police and other protective services.

Heeb Will Talk To Chaffee Seniory

Dr. Heeb is the son of the late Arthur Heeb and Mrs. Margaret Heeb, 111 West Parker Ave.

He is married to the former Marianna Crego, of Creve Coeur, and they are the parents of three children.

Dr. Heeb completed his undergraudate college work at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in 1949, with a bachelor of science degree, in science, magna cum laude. He holds a B.S. degree in Medicine from the University of Missouri in Columbia. He received his doctor of medicine degree from Washington University in St. Louis, graduating cum laude in 1953.

Other professional appointments include: member of board of governors, University of Missouri Medical Alumni Association; councillor, Missouri chapter, American College of Surgeons; Liaison Fellow, Commission on Cancer, American College of Surgeons, district 4, Missouri.

Dr. Heeb is serving his first three- year elective term on the Sikeston board of education and has been chosen vice president of the board.

TV Look At Oversupply Of Graduates

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost a million young men and women on more than 2,000 college campuses are graduating this season. Many will have a tough time finding jobs for which they have prepared.

Last year, according to a state senator, Michigan had 10,000 certified teachers who could not find jobs. A young married man in Pennsylvania who received a degree in economics six months ago is delivering newspapers for $70 a week. In Rochester, N.Y., a man with an engineering degree is working as a department store security guard. And a man with a Ph.D. in American history is jockeying cars in a parking garage—he has received, he said, "no good responses to more than 300 letters he sent to colleges in search of a teaching job.

These are a few examples of the many cited in a "CBS Reports" hour to be broadcast tonight from 7 to 8 p.m. EDT. Called "Higher Education: Who Needs It?" the program is worth a thoughtful look by college students, present and potential, and by their parents.

Reporter Hughes Rudd and a camera crew interviewed an assortment of educators and students. They found everywhere what one college administrator called "the oversupply problem"—too many applicants with degrees for too few jobs requiring them.

The program was not all on the negative side, however. Rudd found the nation has an enormous shortage of trained people for jobs that do not require college degrees. An executive of one of the big three car manufacturing companies said his corporation needs 20,000 trained automotive mechanics right now—and estimated the national need at more than 100,000.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., Rudd visited Ferris State College, which specializes in vocational education, turning out trained technicians and mechanics who receive starting salaries of $9,000 to $12,000. The college president noted that "there isn't a licensed plumber" in the city, but said he had a list of 300 applicants with master's and doctoral degrees.

Specialists and experts interviewed persistently knocked down what Rudd called "an article of faith"—that a college degree is a passport to success, money and the better life.

The program, seen by this writer at a preview, makes its points in cool, unemotional style. It is a special program for a special audience, and might be effective in changing some parental attitudes about the necessity of college and in shifting the goals of some young people.

David Canary, who played Candy, a friendly cowboy on the Ponderosa for two seasons starting in 1967, will return to his role in "Bonanza" in September. Another "major character" will be introduced later in the season. The casting is to help fill the gap left by the death of costar Dan Blocker.

Computer Studies Pep Pill Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beneath the streets of Washington, a whirring computer is scanning 70,000 punch cards in search of an answer that will profoundly affect the multimillion-dollar anti-fat business and its varied clientele.

The $40,000 pilot project is designed to settle once and for all whether pep pills, or amphetamines, and other anti-obesity drugs are safe and effective for weight reduction, in light of their widespread abuse.

The computer's work is scheduled to be completed by June 1, with the government's final decision due a month later.

"It will provide the most important facts," said an attorney for the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, which must set amphetamine-production quotas for next year.

The 1972 quotas, the first since amphetamines were brought under the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act, slashed legal production 82 per cent below last year's total of 10.2 tons of amphetamines and 5.4 tons of the more powerful methamphetamines.

An estimated 20 to 50 per cent of 1971 production was diverted to the youthful drug subculture, truck drivers and students trying to stay awake and athletes striving for superior performance.

The drugs suppress appetite and stimulate the central nervous system.

Medical Help Given New Madrid And East Prairie

NEW MADRID — New Madrid will get two doctors, two nurses and a laboratory technician July 1 under the National Health Service Corps, according to information received from Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton and Congressman Bill Burlison.

The medical team will be housed in the Femmer Building in the 700 block of Main Street, the same building vacated by the New Madrid Medical Group, according to Dr. Sam Hedgepeth, chairman of a Chamber of Commerce medical committee which initiated the effort to bring medical personnel here.

Announcement the medical personnel coming came after New Madrid was designated by the federal government as eligible for low cost treatment by federal doctors, nurses and dentists. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the program will be financed under the 1970 Emergency Health Personnel Act.

There is one medical doctor in New Madrid, a town of 2,719 population and one doctor of osteopathy in East Prairie, a town of 3,275.

Under the National Health Service plan, the doctors will set up their practice here and will operate as if in private practice, the patients paying the prevailing rate for visits. The medical personnel are paid through NHSC and any surplus, after paying of all office expenses, reverts to the NHSC.

Work on getting doctors began soon after the three in the medical group here moved away, when Sam L. Hunter, president of the Bank of New Madrid took steps in recruiting.

The Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, a branch of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, became interested in the problem and Moody Summitt, its executive secretary, began steps that led to getting medical personnel.

Summitt, Bill Cooper of Noranda Aluminum, Inc., and Dr. Hedgepeth attended a meeting in Jefferson City, heard the NHSC program and made application for consideration of the New Madrid- East Prairie area, since East Prairie was seeking a doctor of osteopathy and one has been approved.

The Difference

Touch football differs from regular football in that the ball carrier can be "downed" merely by touching him. It can be played by any number of players and on a field of almost any size.

Blue Loses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here comes Vida Blue. Oops—there goes Vida Blue.

Oakland's illustrious lefthander made his long-awaited debut Wednesday night, but he didn't make it very good.

Pitching one inning of relief in a biref warmup for his first start, Blue gave up two hits and two walks and took the defeat as the California Angeles beat the A's 6-5.

"He had to be nervous," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "The first time out, he's got to have a lot of pressure on him."

Blue, a 24-game winner who claimed both the Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards last season in the American League, was a stubborn holdout this year and didn't sign his contract until several weeks of the season had elapsed. He's slowly peaking toward his first start this weekend.

In the other American League games Wednesday night, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Texas Rangers 51; the Minnesota Twins nudged the Kansas City Royals 1-0 in 12 innings; the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Boston Red Sox 4-1; the Detroit Tigers topped the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 and the New York Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2.

Blue got the call against California while sparse crowd of a little more than 3,000 at Oakland Coliseum applauded his entrance. The score was 4-4 when the stylish shouthpaw came in and threw four straight balls to Art Kusnyer.

Th en he fired a wild pitch, allowing Kusnyer to take second, before walking Sandy Alomar. Ken Berry and Vada Pinson followed with run-scoring singles, both solid shots.

Those two runs proved to be the winning margin, giving Don Rose his first major league victory. The young California pitcher entered the record books with a night' work that included a home run on the first pitch thrown to him in the big time. Only six others in the history of major league baseball have done it.

Rick Reichardt doubled home three runs to cap a five-run burst in the first inning that carried hot Chicago past Texas for its 12th victory in 13 games. Tom Bradley stopped the Rangers on four hits, including Dick Billings' ninth-inning home run.

Texas starter Bill Gogolewski was rached for five hits and all five runs in the White Sox' decisive rally.

Rod Carew's run-scoring simgle broke a scoreless tie in the 12th inning, lifting Minnesota over Kansas City. The single scored Danny Thompson, who had opened with a double off Dick Drago.

The rally gave the victory to Jim Kaat, who had pitched a five-hitter for 11 innings and worked out of tight squeezes in both the 10th and 11th. Wayne Granger pitched the final inning for the Twins to save Kaat's fifth victory in six games.

Andy Etchebarren's two-run single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning as Baltimore erased a one-run deficit and came back to beat Boston.

The Oriole rally was aided by an error by Red Sox second baseman Doug Griffin that allowed Terry Crowley to score from third with the tying run.

Harts; Elks Win

Harts Standard and Elks opened the Senior Babe Ruth season last night at V.F.W. Stadium with baseball victories.

For Harts Standard and its new coach Jim Saulters, it was a 5-0 shutout over Leible Implement.

Elks picked up the nightcap with a 6-1 win over Optimist Club.

In the first game, Harts put together an 11-hit attack, and checked the Leible offense to five base runners in the game off of three hits. Two-hit performances from Harts' Puckett, Hesslrode, Blankenship, and Hewitt powered the winner's offense.

Blankenship went the distance.

Three runs in the third inning put Harts ahead to stay. Two singles and two doubles in the inning combined with Leible errors to send the three runs home.

Leible's leadoff hitter, Collins, put together a two-hit night at the plate while teammate Ward added the only other safety. Walker went the distance for the loss.

Elks put together a timely five-hit attack in the nightcap to pick up the win over the Optimist Club. Elks' Colwick collected two of the winners five hits, and scored one run. First Baseman Johnson knocked a triple in the winners lineup.

An error and a hit in both the first and third innings sent the first two Elks runs home. A three-run scoring sixth frame widened the lead.

Both teams added one run in the final inning. Mitchell picked up the win and McDowell took the loss.

Prep Baseball Final Saturday

LEMAY — Lafayette's Lancers make their fourth straight state tournament appearance Friday afternoon to seek their third straight baseball title. The semifinals open at Heine Meine Park.

Joining the defending champions will be St. Louis DeSmet, West Plains and Lee's Summit, none of which were among last year's finalists.

Lee's Summit brings into the weekend event a 16-0 victory over Hannibal in regional play while Lafayette enters the playoffs with a 7-0 thrashing of Kelly of Benton.

DeSmet edged Rosary, 4-3 and West Plains battled past Springfield Parkview, 1-0.

West Plains battles Lee's Summit at 1 p.m. and Lafayette goes against DeSmet at 3:30 p.m. with the winners meeting for the title Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The Lancers have been the team that has kept a Southeast Missouri team out of the finals for four straight seasons. Kelly of Benton was the latest victim.

Littell Undefeated; Owen's Bat Slumps

Kennett's Greg Buys continued to show improvement after a slow start in the Carolina Class A division of the baseball minor leagues last week.

The husky righthander had a 12 earned run average after the first week of action but has lowered that mark to 6. Buys is 1-4 for the season, pitching 27-innings, allowing 32 hits, walking 18 and striking out 22.

Mark Littell, the five-figure bonus star of the Kansas City Royals from Gideon, is undefeated this season. The hardthrowing righthander is 2-0, working 29 innings, allowing 15 hits, walking 12 and striking out 34. He has a 2.17 earned run average after working six innings, allowing three hits, four walks and fanning seven last week.

He has appeared in four games for the Waterloo, Iowa Royals in the Midwest Class A division.

Sikeston's Gary Owens went 0 for 6 last week and saw his season mark crumble to a .200 average. He's five of 25 for the season with three runs, one double and one run batted in.

Sanguillen Does It

ST. LOUIS (AP) — While others yawned Wednesday night, Manny Sanguillen plugged away and prodded the surging Pittsburgh Pirates to a ninth straight triumph in the National League.

Sanguillen, hitting a lofty .366, sprayed four stright hits and triggered a five-run Pirates rally in the 14th inning carrying them past the sagging St. Louis Cardinals 9-4.

The Pirates' victory, their ninth in a row, lifted them four games back of the New York Mets in the NL East.

But it took 3 hours and 58 minutes, the league's longest game of the season, before they nailed the lid on the Cards, who dropped their 11th in 13 outings.

Sanguillen, who went 5 for 8 in the marathon, singled his first time at bat, then went hitless until igniting a two-run Pirates ninth with a double.

St. Louis battled back to tie 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, then the Pirates' tireless catcher singled in the 10th and 12th preceding the winning explosion.

Following Richie Hebner's walk, Sanguillen singled up the middle to put runners on second and third with none out.

Gene Alley hit a grounder to Joe Torre that brought across the first of five runs when Torre's throw to the plate hit the sliding Hebner on the head.

After winning pitcher Bob Miller (2-1) bounced out, Dave Cash drove in Sanguillen and Alley with a single and the Pirates completed the surge on another hit, a walk and Al Oliver's two-run single.

A Pirates attack included 19 hits for the long contest, but the night belonged to the peppery Sanguillen, a spray hitter totaling five hits in one game, a first for him in the majors.

"I think he's the best in baseball," remarked Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon, who was ejected in the third inning during an altercation with plate umpire Bruce Froemming.

"He's liable to hit any pitch he can reach," Virdon added. "I was swinging at bad balls," the unorthodox Sanguillen acknowledged, "but I don't worry too much about it, really, just so I can hit the ball."

"You just pitch him any way, and he'll hit it," Cardinals catcher Ted Simmons said in amazement. "He has no regard for the strike zone. He hits what he sees."

The long contest also was punctuated by home runs off the bats of Simmons and the Pirates' Roberto Clemente.

Faulkenberry For Congress

DEMOCRAT FOR 10th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

"VOTE FOR ME...I WON'T FORGET YOU."

The incumbent, Burlison, by his "grab for power" and placement of personal ambitions ahead of responsive representation of people who, through our regular democratic system, placed him in office, has put Democrat against Democrat. He has flaunted the Democratic Party and "overstepped" his position in a manner unprecedented by a Congressman. He has, in addition:

created distrust - when confidence is needed.
disappointed loyal workers - when inspiration is needed.
betrayed confidence - when trust is needed.
created division - when unity is needed.

Two more years "of the same" can come to no good. You deserve better!
Faulkenberry seeks only to serve all the people. He needs your support. Vote for a new voice, Faulkenberry, in the primary.

Jane Hart Holds Tax To Protest War

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The wife of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says she has refused to make any more payments on her income tax as a protest against the Vietnam war, Booth Newspapers said in a copyright story from their Washington bureau.

The eight Michigan newspapers reported Monday that Jane Hart wrote the Internal Revenue Service on May 10, saying she will not make any more payments. She told the IRS she is "ready to accept any sanctions that apply," the newspapers reported.

Mrs. Hart, heir to a Detroit manufacturing fortune, said she did not include a check for $6,200 in estimated tax payments when she made her quarterly filing on her estimated taxes.

"I cannot contribute one more dollar toward the purchase of more bombs and bullets," she wrote the IRS. "As a citizen, I feel the kind of desperation that decent Germans must have felt in the '30s."

Sen. Hart said he agreed with his wife's stand on the war but not on her stand about paying taxes.

Emphysema Detection Test Reported

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two California physicians have reported development of a simple, accurate test to identify potential victims of emphysema before their lungs are damaged.

Emphysema, a respiratory disease, is caused by a genetic defect inherited from both parents. If only one parent is involved, the disorder is less likely to occur but more difficult to diagnose.

Drs. Jack Lieberman and Charles Mittman of the City of Hope Medical Center at Duarte, Calif., reported the new test 90 per cent accurate in identifying the one in 20 persons with the potential of developing emphysema.

The doctors reported to the annual meeting of the American Thoracic Society here a chemical protein called alpha-lantirypsin (AAT) which is in the blood of persons who have inherited the defect is easily identified by laboratory test.

Blood containi.g AAT, when mixed with an antibody preparation, develops a double-ring design when placed in a laboratory dish.

HEAVY DRINKERS

DUBLIN (AP) — The Republic of Ireland has the highest ratio of public houses (taverns) to population in Europe.

Statistics show there are about 11,800 publicans' licences, which means a public house for every 255 people. In some towns and villages there is one for every 20 people.

Shawan: Small Rural Settlement

DEXTER — Driving along Route Y, approximately six miles southeast of Bell City you will pass a little country church known as Garden Ridge General Baptist Church, Hunter's Gin and a large grocery and general merchandise store operated by Glen Childers.

And the name of the community is Shawan, another settlement that is a part of the county's history, complete with a school house that has been remodeled and serves as the Garden Ridge parsonage.

The store was owned and operated for several years by Ray Bridges who sold the business in July of last year to Childers. The gin is operated by Sonny Hunter.

The history of the church can be traced back to April 15, 1923 when 27 persons came "to the recently built (Shawan) schoolhouse to discuss organizing a Sunday School."

The church records reveal that there were so many denominations represented that the name Garden Ridge Union Sunday School was selected and the church classes were held right in the school house.

The first Sunday School superintendent was Ben Wright, B. Rast Brown was treasurer; Mrs. Dora Smith, secretary; Mrs. Gusta Wells chart teacher, Odessa Stafford (Mrs. Odessa Gibbs) was Junior teacher and Mrs. Louise Brown, Bible teacher.

The church was reorganized in 1947 and through the efforts of a 4-H Club the plans were begun to build a church building.

The first service in the new church was held May 14, 1949, and then a year later, with school consolidation, the old Shawan School house was sold and the church bought it for a parsonage.

The present church pastor, Rev. Ervin Razer, has pastored the church for five years and he and his family have lived in the parsonage for the past two years. The schoolhouse-parsonage underwent extensive remodeling and redecorating a couple of years ago.

The store carried a complete line of merchandise for the area residents who now have their address as Rural Bell City and since school consolidation are a part of Bell City School District.

The gin is quiet now, but come the autumn months the Shawan community undergoes another change as the cotton starts "coming in".

The farming season is well underway in Shawan and the best time to see many of the residents there now is "at noon hour, after dark or a rainy day."

Such names as the Razers, the Carl Driskells, the Lairsons, Jim and Robert Scheerer families, and others are a part of the Shawan community, as well as some residents who live in Bell City.

Time has brought a change to what was the "old Shawan settlement" but to those who have lived there a long time, it is still Shawan with the mail delivery reading Rural Route 1, Bell City.

And, like so many "settlements" in Stoddard County one of the nicest things about it is the friendliness of its people.

STUDENT IS MOTHER

BALTIMORE (AP) — A student at Northern High School gave birth to a 7 pound, 14-ounce baby girl in the school's dispensary.

"She had no idea she was pregnant," the principal told hospital officials later.

The mother, 16, was described as a good student who had never missed a day of school.

Night Dredging Ordered Halted

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Hillsborough County Environmental Protection Commission has ordered Potashnick Dredging Co. to stop immediately its clanging, banging nighttime dredging operations.

Al Danford, a dog breeder who lives near the Palm River Bridge, complained last week that dredging operations by the Cape Girardeau, Mo., firm have "just about given my wife a nervous breakdown" and cost him two litters of valuable dogs. He asked commissioners for a "permit to sleep."

The Board of County Commissioners, convening as the environmental protection commission, told the dredging company Monday to cease nighttime operations and take "immediate steps to reduce noise emissions" during daylight hours.

The order came on the recommendation of Dr. William A. Smith, a University of South Florida consulting engineer who ran a series of noise level tests from Danford's property during the weekend.

Smith wrote the commission that noise levels from the dredge were of such magnitude they caused "vibrations of loose articles of furniture of houseware and a sensation of vibrations of the internal organs of the body."

Danford put it more simply when he told the commissioners last week "the noise ... would just about drive you nuts."

Everyone Needs To Know Heart Attack Signs

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Are you a candidate for a heart attack?

Are you a man 40 or over? Do you smoke? Are you overweight? Do you have high blood pressure or a high cholesterol count? Do you work under pressure and get little exercise?

If your answer to most of those questions is ',yes", you are a statistically higher risk for a heart attack than those who can say "no".

Is a heart attack early warning signs educational program being conducted in a Missouri rural- urban area of about one million people directed only to these high risk candidates?

The answer here is an emphatic "no".

Financed by Heart Fund contributions of $16,000 for the first year, and $5,000 for the second, the education project is for everyone.

As age increases, women close the statistical gap with men as coronary candidates.

Young men also can be fatally stricken with unsuspected heart trouble, as reminded recently on the national scene by the death of a professional football player.

Moreover, universal need for knowledge of heart attack early warning signs is underscored by a six- month sampling of 77 heart attack patients at one Missouri hospital -- which showed an average delay of decision time of 18 hours.

National statistics show that about a third of heart attack patients do not survive to reach the hospital; most of these deaths occur in the first four hours.

This suggests that he who hesitates may be lost without a relative or friend to recognize or confirm heart attack early warning signs -- and then to act, to get medical aid or to get the victim to a hospital emergency room.

At a briefing before the Missouri early warning signs project was launched, a woman stood to volunteer the information that her husband suffered two days during a convention before discovering he was having a heart attack -- which he barely survived.

"If I had seen those early warning signs," she said, of TV slides which had just been previewed, "I would have known what was the matter."

Among reaction to newspaper articles listing the heart symptoms was that of a private telephone switchboard operator who remarked to a physician caller that she thought the articles were extremely important.

She said the articles had told her a great deal she had not learned during the 10 to 12 years since her husband had suffered a heart attack. His pain, she said, was in the upper neck and ears and in the center of the front of the chest,adding that "everyone is confused about heart pain being on the left side."

The Early Warning Signs Physicians' Advisory committee members stress that the heart is in the center of the front of the chest; that heart attack warnings occur most frequently there, with a feeling of pressure, fullness, squeezing or aching.

They say that the most common combination areas of pain are the chest and one or both arms; the chest and the neck and/or jaws.

They remind that pain also can occur in the abdomen or back; can occur simultaneiouslyy or gradually in all the areas; or any one.

Sweating, shortness of breath, nausea or vomiting may occur, the committee said.

In a reaction survey a month after the Missouri Heart Association project began, some doctors complained that young persons were calling in about chest pains. Others said it was a tribute to the news media that these people could be reached at a point in their life when such knowledge should be universal.

One man in his twenties, whose mother had endured for several days heart attack pain which was blamed on "indigestion", remarked:

"This is the kind of information we need to have while we are young so we can use it later."

Who needs early warning signs of heart attack? Everyone!

Takes No Crossing Action

DEXTER — The City of Dexter has never filed a formal complaint with the Missouri Public Service Commission regarding the lack of safety signals at the two railroad crossings in Dexter which have been the scene of accidents in recent months.

Despite complaints by city officials and despite numerous pleas to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the city has never taken formal action with the state agency that has the power to regulate the railroads and the power to take legal steps to see that such unmarked intersections are marked, this newspaper learned.

Marvin E. Jones, Chairman of the Public Service Commission said that "no formal complaint" has been filed by the city regarding the two unmarked intersections. He added that a formal statement from the city would be required before the Public Service Commission could act.

The City of Dexter, through its Mayor and City Council has appealed by letter to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, but there are strong indications that these letters and appeals are being ignored.

The One Mile Road intersection and the Locust Street intersection have both been scenes of traffic accidents in recent months, and both are unmarked intersections. Both are within the city limits.

The Locust Street intersection, in downtown Dexter, was the scene of the latest such accident in which a Dexter man narrowly escaped death last Tuesday morning.

He was given credit for 198 days spent in jail prior to sentencing.

Bonds and four others were accused of raping a Southeast Missouri College coed while she and a male companion were parked behind Scott County High School. The girl was assaulted after her companion was forced into the car trunk at gunpoint.

Sentenced earlier this year on the rape charge were Kenny Jones, Jr., and Larry Winfield. Jones was sentenced April 19 to 20 years. Winfield received 22 years imprisonment March 10.

The other two involved in the assault were juveniles and are in the State Training School for Boys in Boonville.

An unignited Molotov cocktail was found in the street in front of 139 North Frisco 11:50 p.m. yesterday.

Police said the cocktail was made out of a soft drink bottle filled with gasoline. A cloth rag was jammed into its neck to act as both a stopper and a wick.

Police said the bottle appeared to have been there for some time. Gasoline which had spilled into the street had dried.

Charleston To Vote On City Sales Tax

CHARLESTON — Opposition voiced by merchants last night failed to dissuade the city council from passing an ordinance calling for a city election on a one per cent city sales tax.

The ordinance, setting the election for June 27, was passed by a four to one vote with Councilman Wyman Beasley dissenting.

A petition requesting the council to cancel plans for the election, signed by 80 merchants, was presented by Frank Bihr, manager of the Buckner-Ragsdale store.

George Simmons, owner of Simmons quipment Company said it was an in-opportune time for a city sales tax and in his opinion such action would only split the council, Chamber of Commerce and merchants.

The state now imposes a three per cent tax on sales.

"We have backed the city council for the past five to seven years and the city has progressed in many endeavors but this city tax is a bad thing and will only divide us," Simmons said. "We know the city needs revenue but you should take a long look, reconsider and not bring this issue which the merchants oppose before the voters.

Simmons said he would spend money to oppose the passage of the tax.

Bob French, owner of French Implement company said the sales tax would cost it one-third of its net profit and in his opinion it would force the implement dealers to move out of the city.

Council Sam Story and City Manager Richard Martin each told those present the council has weighed alternatives for increasing city revenue and the sales tax would be the least painful. If the tax is defeated by voters the council have to raise water and sewer rates, increase license fees, permits and possibly implement a cigarette tax, they said.

A delegation of residents on East Byrd protested a petition which had been brought before the council requesting the street be excluded from the summer paving program.

They were informed by City Manager Martin that the petition was not presented in time allotted for protests and that the street would be included in the program.

Bids for street paving program were opened.

W. S. McMullin Construction company of Sikeston was awarded the contract with a bid of $48,063.22.

SORTING MAIL FOR THE LAST TIME, Harrison Tanner, 617 Tanner St., completes 30 years of service with the Post Office today.

Carrier Retires After 30 Years

Harrison Tanner, 617 Tanner St., retired today after 30 years of carrier service at the Post Office. He was honored in a ceremony at the Post Office.

Tanner began working at the Post Office June 10, 1942 as a substitute carrier. On April 1, 1945, he was promoted to regular carrier and has served in that capacity until today.

The Postal Service has recommended that a service award certificate be issued to Tanner, who was presented the first superior accomplishment award at the Post Office when the program was started in 1960.

Tanner lives on the street named for his grandfather, Sam Tanner. Ethyl Tanner, Harrison's wife, said that "Harrison's grandfather lived on this street when it was only a lane."

The Tanners have two sons, John Russell Tanner of San Jose, Calif., and Sam Tanner of Jacksonville, Ark.

Having driven 12 years without an accident, Tanner will receive a 12-year pin from the National Safety Council.

Judge Will Rule On Paving Protest

NEW MADRID — Circuit Judge William L. Ragland today, after a brief hearing, took under advisement an application for a restraining order and injunction against the city of Morehouse.

The application was filed by property owners along Beech street, who object to the resurfacing of the street.

Judge Ragland is expected to rule on it soon.

City Clerk Manuel J. Taylor was the only witness called. He testified he had received a petition March 20 signed by a majority of property owners along Beech street objecting to the paving from Madison to Benton streets.

He said the city resolved April 3 to pave streets and had entered into a contract. Taylor said the cost to the property owners would be $2 or less per running foot.

The property owners, who are objecting to the street being resurfaced, said only patching and maintenance is needed.

Stabbed To Death

JEFFERSON CITY — Benjamin H. Ward, 27, of Cape Girardeau, was stabbed to death in the State Penitentiary gymnasium Wednesday night.

Ward was serving 25 years for the 1968 armed robbery of Jack Stephens Tavern, five miles south of Morley. Also serving 25 years in Jefferson City for the same offense is Raymond Booker, of St. Louis.

Warden Harold H. Swenson said Ward was dead on arrival at the prison hospital with stab wounds, one through the heart. Swenson called it a gang murder, not a killing by a single person.

He said the officer in charge of the prison yard at the time was checking another building when Ward was attacked. When the officer got back to the gymnasium, Ward was the only man left in the building.

Swenson said two suspects are being held and three others are being investigated.

Naval Pact Is Fifth U.S.-Soviet Agreement

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Russian leaders, pushing toward the heralded arms curb climax of their Moscow summit talks, gave formal approval today to the fifth American-Soviet accord signed in three days.

The latest agreement is designed to insure against dangerous confrontations between American and Soviet warships that frequently shadow each other on the high seas.

Signing the document were John Warner, U.S. secretary of the Navy and Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Russian navy and deputy defense minister.

Nixon and top Soviet leaders had wrapped up another round of summit talks about an hour before the 5 p.m. signing. They have been conferring quietly about long-range European and Asian issues dividing their countries, as well as about such topics as limitations on strategic arms.

Known as the WashingtonMoscow Naval Agreement on Prevention of Incidents On and Over the High Seas, the accord does not affect merchant ships or fishing vessels but only ships and aircraft of the two countries' armed forces.

Under its provisions, military commanders must make increased use of signals, refrain from making simulated attacks and use greater caution and prudence in approaching military units of the other country.

The fact that agreements carefully prepared for "finalization" during the President's visit were but a fraction of the summit picture was underlined by Nixon's surprise journey Wednesday evening to a country dacha for dinner and conversation with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and others. The session began about 7 p.m. and continued for five hours.

Nixon spent the morning conferring with his staff at his suite in the Kremlin, spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler reported.

Bertrand Man Slain, Wife Held

BERTRAND — Charles David Western, 33, construction worker, was shot to death at 9 p.m. in his mobile home on route one behind the Hale Auction Company.

His wife, Lillian, 32, was held in the Scott County Jail in Benton this morning for investigation of murder.

She told Scott County Sheriff John Dennis that she shot her husband but claimed he was beating her and she acted in self defense.

Western was pronounced dead at 10:15 p.m. at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston by Coroner Gene Nunnelee. Western was shot six or seven times by a nine-shot .22 -caliber pistol.

Dennis says the shooting was witnessed by the four Western children and a 13-year-old girl, who was visiting at the home.

Western's 12-year-old son ran to a neighbor's house for help after the shooting.

Preparations for a Coroner's inquest began this morning with the jury viewing the body. The jury will hear testimony of witnesses, Mrs. Western, Dennis, and deputies Tom Dover and Gerald Inman.

Western had been arrested three times in two years. In December of 1970 he was fined $106 for driving while intoxicated. On Nov. 29 and Dec. 2, 1971, he was brought into City Court on charges of disturbing the peace. He was fined $31 on the first charge. The second charge was dismissed on payment of costs. Mrs. Western has no previous arrests.

Western was born April 5, 1939 in New Madrid County.

Surviving are his widow; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Western of route one, Bertrand; one son, Allen Western, Bertrand; three daughters, Debra, Wanda and Sandra Western, all of Bertrand; five brothers, Herbert Western, Charleston; Lloyd and Jimmy Lee Western, both of Sikeston, Billy Western, Hillsboro, and Carl Western of Bertrand; and four sisters, Mrs. Alma Lee Smith, Oak Grove, Mrs. Mable Holmes, Bertrand, Mrs. Berma Baker, House Springs, and Mrs. Linda Ramsey, Sikeston.

East Prairie Adopts Plan

EAST PRAIRIE — A comphehensive plan for development of the city, prepared by the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, was adopted last night by the city council at a meeting with the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Ron Yersak of Malden in charge of the comprehensive plan said:

"The City council should find this plan a useful tool in guiding future development and it should be used as a legislative policy instrument by the council rather than become just another unused document.

Mayor Lloyd Hogan said the adoption of the plan was the greatest step the city has taken and predicted that in 10 years the city will be as modern and up-to-date as any town in the Bootheel if it is used.

"If not used and enforced it will only be another $2,000 down the drain," Hogan said.

The only major change in the plan was the zoning of Washington Street from city limit to city limit, 150 feet on either side, except for public property, as commercial or future commercial. The same zoning restriction will apply to Main Street from Washington Street east to the city limits.

City Manager Speaks

City's Pros And Cons Outlined

Like all cities, Sikeston has both its assets and liabilities, city Manager Jim Huff told the Lions Club yesterday.

Huff told the club he was a stranger and that gave him the opportunity to look at the city differently than those who have lived here a long time.

The assets, Huff said, include the city's outstanding school system, its comphrehensive development plan, the new city park to be built near the airport, wide open spaces both inside and outside the city and the widening of Main street.

Liabilities include the lack of master storm drainage and capital improvements plans, and adequate facilities for garbage disposal.

The city needs more efforts at beautification, adequate housing for everyone and more employment opportunities.

Huff said he is still reviewing the city revenue system, considering whether the city has a role to assure, housing and jobs, and trying to discover if city employes receive adequate compensation.

Huff said he is still debating whether the city should sponsor a comprehensive recreation program or leave it to volunteers —like the youth baseball league.

GOVERNMENT
INFILTRATIN?

Ted Crosby, brother of Bing, recently made the following observations on his retirement as president of the Spokane, Washington, chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution:

"Justifying the fears of the colonist, our government has grown into a monstrous organization, octopus -like, with tentacles reaching into every phase of life.

"Did the founders of this country dream that government one day would be telling the citizens where they must send their children to school? That their money should no longer be backed by silver and gold? That taxes would be levied on the thirfty to support the shifty?

"That Americans would be sent willy-nilly to fight undeclared wars they are not allowed to win? That government would infiltrate into every phase of the economy, even as the Communists infiltrate government, the churches and the schools?"

So now the rum-dums are shooting at the candidates for the Presidenty. I believe that the carelessness or whatever it is, the craziness or whatever you want to call it, that invades the people, is brought on by the Governors who do not kill the man when he is sentenced to death or the judges to release them or the parole board or such as that. I don't know what it is. I know this much, that my sympathies are all with the Wallace Family. Of course, I was going to vote for him. I voted for him four years ago and will vote for him again and I believe if he is not paralyzed, that there is a possibility that he might win this nomination.

Maybe our readers can add a few more definitions to this list, but most of these should ring a bell -- as candidates shake your hand now and shake your faith later, if they get in.

CAN'T HANDCUFF
POLICE

St. Louis County Juvenile Judge Robert G. J. Hoester has given staunch support to Missouri policemen in pursuit of their dutues, while at the same time condemning "self-appointed intellectual experts who attempt to handcuff law enforcement officers.

In giving solid support to policemen, Judge Hoester put himself 100 per cent in opposition to anyone who would attempt to undermine their effectiveness, whether by hamstringing them or by preaching hatred or distrust.

Judge Hoester's message to the Missouri Police Officers Association should serve as a big morale booster to harassed lawmen.

More importantly, his thoughts need to be understood and appreciated by the public at large. Judge Hoester has credentials that merit credibility, with wide experience presiding over criminal cases.

In capsule, Judge Hoester gave policemen this sound advice:

"Don't accept the American Bar Association's recommendation that no man can be placed in jail for more than five years.

Don't accept the thought that police should not have guns. Every policeman should carry a gun.

"Don't accept the argument that every person convicted of a crime can be rehabilitated. They can't.

"Don't accept any arrangment that takes away the tools necessary to fight the war against crime."

By rejecting the sociological opinions of the American Bar Association, Judge Hoester evidenced superior judgment.

Judge Hoester is a no-nonsense man who believes his obligation is to protect society.

He frankly admits he once sentenced a man to two life sentences and two 99-year terms because "I didn't ever want this man to get out of jail." Why? Because the man had murdered four persons without remorse.

Well-meaning persons must recognize there are some individuals who will commit crimes no matter how much love and care are lavished upon them, Judge Hoester declares. The way to protect society against such offenders is through incarceration in a penal institution, he adds.

Rightly, Judge Hoester is totally scornful of those who revile policemen as "pigs."

If there were more men of Judge Hoester's caliber on the bench, policemen would not feel frustrated at doing their job, only to have courts serve as revolving doors for criminals.

Judge Hoester is just fundamental enough to believe liberty and freedom should be reserved for those people who comply with the laws.

His concept of law and order, if carried out by others in the courts, would go a great way toward making the streets safe for the public — and for policemen.

Will, or has, the YMCA become another front group for socialist activists? Dr. Robert Harlan, the Executive Director of the YMCA's National Council, didn't say so exactly, but one got the drift when he said, in Dallas, the YMCA should "expose social problems and conditions.' and, "It is not enough to provide a kid in the ghetto [there's that word again] with sports activities. We must also focus on the factors that keep ghettos in existence." As if that pregnant statement weren't enough, the executive director said the next board meeting to be held in March in New York would vote on a "Five Year Plan" — a phrase straight out of the Kremlin. Where does all this social concern come from? Well, he said the YMCA has been getting ideas on the YMCA role from Margaret Mead and Ramsey Clark (of the socialist ADA and ACLU).

NEW YORK (AP) — Middle age is the least appreciated period of life. People often act as if they thought if they paid no attention to it, it would go away like a bad dream.

Well, it won't. On the other hand middle age is no 24-houra-day, around the clock nightmare. After they get used to it, many of its victims find middle age more enjoyable, in some ways, than youth.

You don't have to be daffy to recognize that the middle years of existence have their consoling rewards as well as their demerits.

Here are a few reasons why you shouldn't dissolve in tears on arriving at your 40th birthday:

You don't have to call up an electronic dating bureau to find out which girl would be best for you to take out some evening. Your wife will nominate herself.

It isn't necessary to start searching for a bigger apartment or a larger house if you see a stork's wing on the horizon. The stork no longer keeps your address in its address book.

You probably have become familiar with the symptoms of some kind of chronic disease with which you'll keep company in your old age. And it doesn't seem as terrible as you thought it might be.

You have lost much of the insecurity that secretly plagued your youth. Therefore you don't make a nuisance of yourself by trying to top every witty remark you hear at a cocktail party.

Unless you have become an alcoholic, you have learned to take only two last ones for the road instead of five.

Your children are either out of their teens, or near the end of them, and now and then do something thoughtful that leads you to suspect they may turn into human beings, after all. Some months you are even able to pay their phone bills without crying out to high heaven in financial agony.

There is no inclination to jump on the bandwagon for every new intolerance or promised reform that parades by your door. You may even be willing to drop some old outworn prejudice that kept you smug before.

The fact that you will probably be doing the day after tomorrow pretty much the same thing you did the day before yesterday becomes more of an assurance than a punishment.

It occurs to you that the rest of mankind is not engaged in a mass conspiracy to foil you, but that each man is more probably simply trying to take care of himself, just as you are.

You do miss some of the high excitements and keen despairs of your younger years, when your moods rode a roller coaster every day.

But you do find instead a quiet ecstasy in spending more time admiring God's tremendous architecture than in carping at His misdeeds and oversights.

All in all, there is as much about middle age to enjoy as there is that needs to be forgiven.

QUESTIONS ON

The question of justice does not seem to be very deeply involved in the release of James R. Hoffa after he had served 4½ years of a 13-year sentence in a federal penitentiary for fraud and jury tampering. The ends of justice were substantially achieved when Mr. Hoffa, former Teamsters union president, went to jail; letting him out somewhat early does not make too much difference — except politically.

Why did President Nixon commute the sentence to time served? Presumably to win political favor from the Teamsters, and possibly other union members. What about the non-union voters made angry by Mr. Hoffa's release? No doubt the President calculated he would make more friends than enemies. Mr. Hoffa has declined to say whether he will endorse Mr. Nixon for President in 1972. We shall see what happens.——Post-Dispatch.

WORKFARE BILL
SIGNED

President Nixon has done well to sign the "workfare" bill requiring able-bodied adults on welfare to take jobs or sign up for job-training.

The new law is aimed at cleaning up abuses under the program of aid for families with dependent children. Effective July 1, work registration is required for all adults in the AFDC program except for the aged, the ill, the disabled, those in school and mothers of children younger than 6 years.

Acknowledging current economic conditions create a problem of finding jobs for many who have never been on welfare, the reform was needed to prevent chiseling by those who heretofore have refused to work.

It is not at all demeaning to require a welfare applicant to be registered for work with the Department of Labor, as well as at the welfare office that disburses checks.

President Nixon is right in saying the workfare concept reflects the national interest.

Any job for an able-bodied man is preferable to life on the public dole, the President commented.

"No task, no labor, no work is without dignity or meaning that enables an individual to feed and clothe and shelter himself and provide for his family." Mr. Nixon observed in signing the bill.

Well said, Mr. President.——Globe-Democrat.

RED BLITZ BOGS DOWN DESPITE ADVANTAGE

The communist North Vietnamese, armed with Russian tanks, airplanes, artillery and missiles, are attempting to "blitz" South Vietnam and humiliate the United States while we are withdrawing our troops. They hoped to sweep through Vietnam in a blitz like Hitler unleashed on Poland in 1939 and on France in 1940. Each fell in a matter of weeks after the blitz started.

The North Vietnamese got a 6-mile advantage for their starting point for their blitz, because of the so-called Demilitarized Zone, which they had fortified for 18 years as a starting point for their invasion.

Despite all the advantages on the side of the attacker in a blitz war and despite the doom and gloom sound of the national news media reports on the Red Blitz, the North Vietnamese invasion has achieved only 21 miles of gains after passing the DMZ. The Nazi blitz of Poland made that much in a day.

The Reds are attacking in other places along the flank of Vietnam,too, from Laos and Cambodia, for example, but they are failing to make blitz war gains anywhere. Vietnam extends 675 miles from the DMZ to the far southern point in the Mekong Delta area. If it were not for the threats from the flanks through Cambodia and Laos, the 21-mile gains across the DMZ would pose little danger

These same threats also endanger Thailand and the anti-communist areas of Laos and Cambodia, which otherwise would be highly effective allies against communism. Freedom enthusiasts can take heart in the Red Blitz bogging down. The South Vietnamese are fighting harder and against great odds; they know how many the Reds will slaughter if allowed to overrun their land. The South Vietnamese are delaying the Red blitz from sweeping through Thailand, Indonesia, Burma and the Philippines. We should all be thankful. HLH

$100 Million Meat Steal: union chiefs 'shocked' by Foreign affairs appear undisturbed my Mafia infiltration

CHICAGO — There is a sprawling union nationally headquartered here whose leaders methodically unleash fusillade after fusillade of ideological and philosophica. thunder against all evils on all fronts - across the globe -- except the underworld of organized crime.

Now it happens that thi union, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen (AFL—CIO), is the parent union of a local allegedly tied up with Mafia chiefs since "Little Augie" Pisano died a bullet-ridden big shot and Charles "Lucky" Luciano was not so lucky. They and their inheriting dons launched this thing, according to the authorities. And these same law and order men now estimate that the combination of this local, 174, biggest in the national union, and the underworld, raised the cost of meat to the people by almost $200 million a year in just one section of the country.

All this is in sworn testimony and documents in the hands of crusading local and federal investigators. Mind you, the reference is to such cities as Boston, New York , Philadelphia and surrounding areas. This means the impoverished black and Puerto Rican ghettos of Newark, parts of New England, and some of the poorest proletarian waterfronts.

This is all brought to mind by reports that a grand jury, which has been probing the union and the meat industry for about a year under the direction of a Manhattan District Attorney's Racket Bureau chief, Al Scotti, might soon bring in some indictments.

At the same time there come reports that one of this national union's vice presidents, the globe-girdling, Boston-based Clifton Caldwell, returned recently from Hanoi and said he was "shocked and scared" by President Nixon's mine-the-harbors speech.

Now it is Caldwell's privilege to be shocked by anyone and certainly his right to attack the President and denounce the war.

But it is strange that Caldwell isn't shocked and scared by some home-front wars--such as is described by an assistant U.S. attorney, Nick Scopetta, who said:

"They (the organized crime crowd of the Luchese, Gambino units) succeeded in gaining such a foothold in the industry that it is now built into and it is a part of the industry in New York as I think this present investigation is going to show."

Now this would shock a lot of people. Especially since Scopetta, once one of Al Scotti's aides, places the Boston area, which is part of Caldwell's territory, as inside the looting jurisdiction.

Also, could Caldwell and some of his fellow national officers save a little shock for what Al Scotti told a judge on April 16, 1969, after a trial of union and Mafia meat operators in the field?

"Racketeers use their bargaining power to retaliate against the witnesses. I was so concerned about that that I felt it my duty to call in officials of the international union and I apprised them of this information and I am glad to say they gave me every assurance that the collective bargaining process would not be used for that purpose (retaliation -- VR)....During this conference I told them bluntly that this local had been dominated by underworld elements as far back as I can remember and I berated them for not having done anything about it and I told them that they justified their rather spineless complacency on the grounds they dare not interfere in the affairs of the local union . . .

"I said it is about time we became realistic and did something about it.

"They did give me some encouragement. They would do something about it. These kinds of labor officials have enabled the underworld to extend its influence in labor, in business and in industry."

If Caldwell and the other national leaders were shocked by this short speech, I find no evidence. Nor does there seem to have been any action. Yet there are some 340 meat wholesalers involved in just one section.

Yet with Scotti in the lead, it is an open secret that the whole Eastern complex now is under investigation by the Justice Dept., one of its strike forces, the FBI, the Congress and a section of the Labor Dept.

We're talking here of alleged mulcting of house money from the poorest of the poor, from welfare clients, from the subsistence in come families too, as well as those on the Park Avenues and Philadelphia Mainliners and Boston suburbs.

We find that the union chiefs' indignation, with a strange inverse rationale, is directed at the investigators and not the investigated. It is as though a private domain were being pried into by intruders. It is as though the public had become the personal property of a handful of men and those who defend the people are the culprits.

It's about time words such as those from Al Scotti shocked the national leaders as well as affairs foreign.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, holding out a promise of progress at their Moscow meeting, related an anecdote to President Nixon on the eve of his departure.

The anecdote was part of the private message that Soviet ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin delivered to the President at Camp David.

Brezhnev had a favorite story, said Dobrynin, about the traveler who asked a grizzled, old Russian farmer how long it would take to walk to the next village. The farmer grunted that he didn't know. With a shrug, the traveler started off toward the village. But as he was striding away, the farmer called after him: "Fifteen munutes."

Surprised, the traveler retorted: "But you said you didn't know how long it would take me to reach the village."

"That was before I saw how big your steps are," said the old man.

Dobrynin, quoting Brezhnev, said the Communist party chief was satisfied from the advance steps that substantial agreements would be reached in Moscow to improve Russian-American relations. Brezhnev's message was that their meeting would not be merely "cosmetic" - a word that the President later repeated to the press to express his optimism about the Moscow outcome.

His optimism was based, however, on more than Brezhnev's encourageing message. The President also had on his desk an intelligence analysis suggesting that Brezhnev's personal prestige was on the line, that he needed to produce favorable results to justify the summit meeting.

Inside the Kremlin, apparently, Brezhnev had encountered harsh opposition to inviting Nixon to Moscow. The military-industrial faction, in particular, felt the summit meeting would undermine their relations with Hanoi just as the North Vietnamese were achieving victories with Soviet equipment.

The Russian marshals were anxious to share in the North Vietnamese victories and to gain an edge over the Chinese in Hanoi. They also wanted to exploit North Vietnamese displeasure over President Nixon's visit to Peking. This would be difficult to do, it was argued, if Nixon were also invited to Moscow.

The opposition to the invitation was so strong that Brezhnev had to invoke his personal authority to overrule the marshals. When the President mined Haiphong harbor, it strengthened the opposition and caused a crisis for Brezhnev. He had to exercise all his powers to keep the summit conference from being cancelled.

The intelligence analysis suggested, therefore, that he needs a successful meeting with Nixon to justify his insistence on going ahead with it.

MAFIA MARKETEERS

Mafia-run companies with annual sales of $400 million are foisting off their products on the American housewife through some of the nation's best-known supermarket chains.

So entangled is the Mafia with the products, that their brand names should read "Cosa Nostra Cleaner" or "Crime Syndicate Suds." In fact, they bear the labels of more than a dozen widely sold items.

What has happened is that the Mafia hoodlums have gained control of the companies making the products through intermediaries called "straws" or brokerage deals. The Mafia may also maintain stretegically - placed employees within the companies.

Once the Mafia is in corporate control, its muscle men let the supermarkets know that the price of peace is to stock the mob's products prominently on the shelves.

The supermarkets, in a few cases, have resisted the threats of labor strife, arson and even murder which constitute the Mafia's favorite sales pitches.

More often, the retailers have caved in, giving the housewife products whose higher prices include the crime syndicate's cut.

To combat Mafia influence in the grocery business, Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., will hold new hearings in June on some of the supermarket products. He has already produced public evidence that A and P was unsuccessfully pressured by the Mafia to carry a syndicate-controlled detergent

In preparation for the new hearings, Magnuson's sleuths have worked incognito coast-to-coast. We have not named the supermarkets or products to avoid giving the hoodlums a chance to scurry for cover before Magnuson summons them to testify.

Footnote: Working with Magnuson to expose the Cosa Nostra commercial interests is Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., an ex-judge.

NATIONAL GUARD
DWINDLES

With draft calls slackening off, the National Guard has fallen back on recruiting contests to keep up its ranks. Not only has the drive failed, but it appears to violate federal law.

The 113th Tactical Fighter Wing in Washington, for example, reported dismally in its newsletter that the guardsmen are still leaving faster than they're coming in.

Actually, the National Guard may want to reconsider its promises of cash and a Puerto Rican vacation for the winning recruiter-guardsman. Title 10 of the Federal Code clearly states that "no bounty may be paid to induce any person to enlist in the Armed Forces." When we queried the National Guard, they insisted the rule only applied to those coming in -- not those bringing them in.

Tuition Hikes May Strip State Colleges Of Out-Of-Staters

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The popular theory that Missouri state colleges and universities were created for Missourians could wind up a costly hot potato for legislators one day soon.

Out-of-state tuition for residents of border states went up last year and will continue to spiral, according to at least one northwestern college prediction. The result could be emptied dorms and higher costs for the resident student to make up the losses.

Tuition at Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville went to $720 a year for non Missourians this year. This fall, tuition at Northwest State will be $810 a year and on to $900 the following year.

"Ultimately, I think, outstate tuition will be raised to meet the entire cost," predicted Dr. Charles H. Thate, vice president in charge of student affairs at Maryville. The cost now is about $1,200 a year per student and rising.

One of the problems Thate anticipates with increased tuition is loss of student population. He said he expects outof-state enrollment to drop about 15 per cent this fall and those students make up 37 to 38 per cent of the total 5,600 student enrollment this year.

The next item to be hit, according to Thate's fears, will be the college dormitories.

At Northwest State, dorms were built on a long-range plan and will house about 3,200 students. They are not paid for and there are bond commitments against the property. Loss of dorm population could be a costly headache.

"Non resident students are making a capital investment in Missouri living in these dormitories," Thate said. "Over the longhaul, I think they pay their way."

Thate said the Maryville College will probably lose 400 to 500 Iowa students this fall because of the hike in tuition. He said the cost is now about equal to Iowa state colleges ($720) but the new fees next fall will put non-resident fees over the cost of going to college in Iowa.

On the Illinois border, Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau also plans to raise out-of-state tuition this fall.

Bob Foster, assistant to the president at Southeast State, said fall tuition has been tentatively set at $620 a year for outof-state students — up $220 over costs this year. A final decision on the proposed increase, he said, will be made later this summer.

The college at Cape Girardeau needs more money, Foster said.

Other state colleges and universities either plan no increase over this year's fees or have yet to decide the matter.

Tuition at Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield for out-of-state students is $900 a year and no increase is planned, according to officials.

At Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, officials said no change from the current $720 a year out-of-state tuition is planned.

The University of Missouri will discuss the matter at its Board of Curators meeting this month.

"I think there's a possibility there may be (an increase)," Harold Hume said. Hume is director of cost studies at the University of Missouri.

He said there was "mixed feeling on the board" and tuition is always a matter discussed when the budget is compiled.

Now, out-of-state tuition at the University of Missouri at Columbia is $1,420 a year. At other campusses it ranges upward to $1,469 for out-of-state students at the University of Missouri, Rolla, an engineering and mining specialty school.

Congress May Order Troops Out By Oct. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan says chances are good Congress will order U. S. forces out of the Indochina war by Oct. 1 in return for release of American prisoners.

But he adds "I don't think it'll do a damn bit of good . . ."

The Pennsylvania Democrat, who has turned about- face from supporting war policy to opposing it, said Wednesday he is pessimistic Hanoi would accept the terms even if President Nixon did.

Enemy Escalates Kontum Assault

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese gunners slammed hundreds of rockets and artillery shells into Kontum today in the most intense attack on that city of their two-month offensive, following the infiltration of sappers into the town.

U.S. sources said the heavy shelling appeared to indicate that the North Vietnamese were about to launch a drive to seize their second provincial capital.

Similar heavy shelling attacks forced the South Vietnamese to abandon northernmost Quang Tri Province May 1. The provincial capital of An Loc on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for 49 days but has managed to hold, though it is virtually destroyed.

Six hundred to 800 rockets and shells from captured U.S. made 105mm howitzers hit Kontum between dawn and dusk.

Early in the day, North Vietnamese sappers backed by tanks attacked the city from the south. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said that by dusk all of them had been killed, driven out or had withdrawn. But U.S. sources said that as night covered the city, some of the sappers were occupying former South Vietnamese bunkers near the airstrip.

Two assaults against South Vietnam's northernmost defense line at My Chanh, 20 to 25 miles north of Hue, were reported repulsed. South Vietnamese spokesmen at Hue said 166 North Vietnamese troops were killed by government troops and artillery in what one U.S. adviser described as a "turkey shoot." South Vietnamese losses were reported as 15 troops killed and 43 wounded.

The spokesmen also reported that two Soviet-built BTR50 amphibious personnel carriers were destroyed, marking the introduction of another new weapon to the Indochina war. The BTR50 is a 14 1/2-ton carrier with a crew of two. It carries 12 infantrymen.

At An Loc, on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, field reports said up to 4,000 civilian refugees were able to get out of the besieged city. The refugees, mostly old women and children, walked south to Tau O, a village nine miles below An Loc. They said about 50 had been killed by North Vietnamese shellings during their escape.

American planes, retaliating for the enemy offensive now beginning its ninth week, smashed the two biggest power plants and a major bridge in the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex for the first time since the 1965-68 bombing campaign.

U.S. sources said 150 to 300 North Vietnamese sappers from the 2nd Division penetrated Kontum and occupied portions of the air field, some civilian houses, a school, a Catholic seminary and the home of the French bishop of Kontum, Msgr. Paul Seitz.

The targets are located near the southern edge of the city, approximately due south from the western end of the air strip. The sappers also moved into the farming hamlet of Kapang on the southeastern outskirts of the city.

The North Vietnamese also made new assualts on the northern front above Hue and on two sides of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city. Heavy fighting was also reported on the southern front in the Saigon area as the North Vietnamese offensive began its ninth week.

Long before the North Vietnamese launched their offensive on March 30, U.S. officials said Kontum, a major provincial capital in the highlands, would be one of the chief objectives. Quang Tri, the country's northernmost provincial capital, fell on May 1, and An Loc, another provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for seven weeks.

Man Gives Up Bid To Swap Hostage For Plane

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A man who held a young woman hostage at gunpoint for several hours today in an attempt to make authorities meet demands to place a jet plane at his disposal surrendered the gun in the Dallas police headquarters, a police spokesman said.

The man agreed about an hour before he gave up the pistol at 9 a.m. to go to downtown headquarters from Love Field and negotiate with Police Chief Frank Dyson.

It appeared he still had some control of the situation in headquarters until he gave the pistol to Asst. Police Chief Paul Townsend.

A police spokesman identified the man as Virgil Lee Fuqua of Dallas.

The incident began early today when a man held up a grocery store in Waco operated by James Roberts, husband of the woman who was held hostage.

The man forced Mrs. Roberts, 20, to drive him to a Fort Worth air field to try to get a plane, and when none was available the pair drove to Dallas's Love Field, the man demanding that a jet plane be ready and fueled for him, police said.

In Dallas, the man demanded another weapon and handcuffs for Mrs. Roberts.

Meanwhile, Townsend negotiated with the man and persuaded him to leave the car in which he and the woman had been sitting with his hostage and enter an unmarked police car to drive downtown to talk with Police Chief Dyson, authorities said.

A route to headquarters was cleared and all persons except Dyson were removed from the third floor of the police station while negotiations went on. All doors were heavily guarded.

Dyson said the man still had his gun while they talked but the man made no threats and was very quiet and composed except that he became "excited about having to face up to jail."

The chief said the gunman did not appear to be on drugs or any other stimulant.

Negotiations in Dallas lasted about five hours, including the talks in Dyson's office.

Where the man who held Mrs. Roberts hostage wanted to fly was not known.

Mrs. Roberts' father, former Waco policeman Thadd Johnson, said Fuqua had a minor gunshot wound in one hand. Johnson said his daughter grabbed the pistol at one point, and the man suffered the wound in wrestling it from her.

Economic Indicators Up Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's leading economic indicators pointed today toward a sharply expanding economy in the months ahead.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators increased 1.4 per cent in April and, on top of that, the March advance was revised upward to 1.9 per cent.

The March revision was the sharpest increase in the indicators in a year and the April gain of 1.4 per cent was also regarded as strong advance.

Although the index of leading indicators is not regarded as a precise measure of the economy, it is supposed to shed light on the general way in which the economy is headed.

Based on the two-month increases, the trend is toward acceleration. The Nixon administration has said it now must watch the economy closely to make sure that it doesn't expand too fast and touch off a new round of inflation.

Ann Landers

Mate Matching Machine Draws Nothing But Duds

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30 years old and have never married. People have always told me I am pretty, smart, and fun to be with. No one ever mentioned marriage. One day I became a little "adventurous" -- or perhaps panicky is a better word -- and sent my name (and check) to a scientific mate-matching foundation. I had received mailings from this "Foundation" and the letterheadds carried the names of a well-known doctor and two nationally known clergymen. I was sure these people would not be connected with anything shoddy, but I was wrong.

I was put in touch with eight "prospects" in seven weeks. Five were unemployed and looking for a woman to keep them. Two were overt homosexuals -- one offered to be my hairdresser and private secretary in exchange for marriage, if I'd let him keep his boyfriend. Another was a religious fanatic who wanted to know immediately if I would let him burn his initials on my back with a cigaret. The only "candidate" who seemed to have all his marbles had a severe physical handicap and told me with considerable anguish that he had met 30 women through the "foundation" -- most of them crazy. For these leads he has already paid $380.

I am ashamed of myself for having been such a sucker. The public should be warned about these rackets. Tell the world, will you, Ann? --Seattle Chump

Dear Seattle: I HAVE been telling the world, and I will continue to tell those who are willing to listen. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: I appreciated your boost for Recovery, Inc. For 15 years I suffered from nerves. I went to doctor after doctor, took thousands of tranquilizers, and then I read about Recovery, Inc. in an article by Dr. Walter Alvarez. I learned that a group was holding meetings four blocks from my home.

The people there weren't interested in anybody's past -- only the future. They taught me not to be afraid of my feelings, how to react to nervous people who blow up, how to find the courage to go back to shopping, driving and living. You learn you won't die if your heart beats fast or if you can't catch your breath, or if you get waves of nausea and spells of weakness.

All it cost me was 25 cents for the coffee and cake after the meeting. Some bargain for a whole new life, after 15 years in hell. Tell it again, Ann. --M.M.M.

Dear M.M.M.: I will. Write to the national headquarters and find out where the meetings are being held in your town. The address is: Recovery, Inc.; 116 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Dear Ann Landers: This is my husband's first year with a firm that will soon have their annual barbecue. Wives and husbands are not invited. It's strickly for employees.

We both work and have precious little time together. I resent this policy and feel that companies should promote togetherness at home instead of making trouble between husbands and wives. My husband says he is going, regardless -- and we've argued about it. I told him if he goes it will be the straw that broke the camel's back. Comment, please -- Lana

Dear L.: That camel didn't have a very strong back, Lady. Although I agree that company parties that exclude mates are bummers, if that's the way his company does it, be a good sport. A wife who would give her husband an ultimatum over such a trivial matter is grossly immature.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request to this newspaper.

Heat Sensing Device Used To Detect Breast Cancer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heat-sensing devices developed to stalk the enemy in Vietnam are being used in a medical hunt to spot breast cancer before it's too late.

The new technique is so promising that some doctors think medicine may now have a way to conduct mass screening of women, a project they believe might eliminate the disease as a major killer of American women.

Estimates are that this year 71,000 women will learn they have breast cancer and 30,000 will die from it.

The heat-sensing instruments measure infrared radiation. In Vietnam they're used in weapon systems and for enemy detection at night. In medicine, they've become part of a machine called a thermograph.

"We feel that thermography is going to prove to be of the same value in breast cancer detection as the Pap smear in cervical cancer," predicted Dr. Alfonso Zermeno, a biophysicist at the M. D. Anderson Hospital here where more than 3,000 women have been studied with thermography since the mid1960s. Other doctors have expressed reservations about thermography.

Mass screening of women for cervical cancer using the quick, inexpensive and easy to administer Pap smear has brought a dramatic reduction in the disease in recent years. Cervical cancer was a leading killer of women 30 years ago.

Doctors have recognized for some time that early detection of breast cancer through mass screening is a secret to conquering the malady, which particularly strikes women over 40. But the necessary devices have been lacking.

Even the most skillful doctor's fingers can't locate a tiny, new tumor. An X-ray technique called mammography can spot tumors, but it has limitations, is expensive and controversy - ridden because of the radiation involved.

The principle involved in thermography is simple. For some reason cancer tumors generate more heat than surrounding body tissues. This heat is radiated outward from the body as infrared radiation. It will show up on an infrared scanner just as the heat from an enemy truck engine in Southeast Asia will appear. The thermograph, which sits on a tripod and looks like a portrait photographer's camera, measures only the body's natural radiation.

Not all doctors are ready to accept thermography, however.

And even its most avid proponents warn it should be used in a mass screening program only in conjunction with a physical examination of the breasts either by a doctor or a highly trained paramedic.

Thermography's detractors argue that it still isn't sophisticated enough and that some breast tumors can slip through.

Ringing church bells does nothing to appease thunderstorms. France outlawed the practice in 1786 after a 33-year period in which lightning killed 103 bellringers hopefully tugging rain-wet bellropes.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Dinner Hour Kibitzers Are Her Pet Peeve

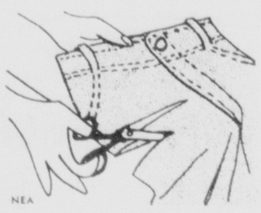
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—One of my Pet Peeves is with friends who take advantage of the hospitality of other friends by barging in at the dinner hour, walk into the dining room or kitchen and refuse the invitation to join the family for dinner or even a cup of coffee. They simply stand by the table chattering away and ruining the meal for the entire family. This has happened to me so frequently and I do not know how to offer an excuse that will make the "friend" understand that we would appreciate her consideration by sitting down in the living room for the time being. Worst of all, these people consider themselves socially well-mannered.—MINERVA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I do wish some reader would tell me how to soften up a box of raisins after they have become hard and are stuck together.—MRS. S.

DEAR POLLY—Never throw away scuffy old jeans. Be a jean-ius and recycle them into funky catch-all totes. Cut off jeans at the crotch. Turn top part inside out and stitch together at the bottom. For straps, lace strong ribbon or cord around the side belt loops and sew ends together. This will be a real money saver. —GLORENE



DEAR POLLY — I have the perfect answer for Kay who has the problem with the scratchy zipper in the back of her sweater. I buy one-inch-wide velvet ribbon (Polly's note—If the sweater is washable, buy the washable-type velvet ribbon), cut it to cover the entire length of the zipper. Place over the zipper with the fuzzy side next to the skin and baste or stitch side to one side of the zipper tape and the torture ends. This is so easy and so comfortable.—M. C.

McGovern Ahead Of HHH In 2 Surveys

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) -- Sen. George McGovern would run slightly better than Hubert Humphrey as a Democratic challenger to President Nixon, according to two nationwide surveys taken by the Gallup Poll.

The President, however, continues to hold a wide though reduced lead over both McGovern and Humphrey, the Gallup Poll said Sunday.

In the latest Gallup survey, completed in early May, Nixon holds an 8-point lead over McGovern and an 11- point lead over Sen. Humphrey.

"But this difference cannot be considered statistically significant," according to the Gallup Poll.

"In the earlier of the two most recent surveys, McGovern also ran as strongly as Humphrey against Nixon.

"Sen. McGovern has demonstrated for the first time that he is as strong a vote-getter as Sen. Hubert Humphrey in test races against President Nixon."

The poll completed in early May showed Nixon winning the support of 43 per cent of registered voters, to 35 per cent for McGovern and 15 per cent for Gov. George C. Wallace.

Nixon wins the support of 45 per cent in the latest survey, to 34 per cent for Humphrey and 15 per cent for Wallace.

The results are based on interviews with 1,180 voters in more than 300 localities across the nation.

Acorn Ridge Has More Strawberries

ACORN RIDGE — Acorn Ridge may have been misnamed.

It could instead, have well been named "Strawberry Ridge" or "Peach Ridge," and perhaps have been closer to the fact.

Right now, small Acorn Ridge, home to two or three dozen people, is alive with activity this week. Acorn Ridge is thriving.

The reason for the activity — Strawberries, and plenty of them. Hillcrest Farms, operated by Loyd McDonald, is located on the east edge of Acorn Ridge, and the eight acres of strawberries are corwsed with pickers, young and old.

The store and service station is now closed in Acorn ridge, and some of the houses stand empty, but the outstanding soil around the community has given rise to a major "industry" of sorts -- some of the finest strawberries and peaches in Stoddard County.

Nestled in the gently rolling hills west of Bloomfield on Route J, Acorn ridge 'goes way back" in county history, according to the residents today.

Like many of the smaller county communities surveyed during the past months by the Dexter Messenger, the early history of Acorn Ridge has been muddled by time. Little of the early history of the smaller towns was ever written down, and was only passed along with word of mouth through families that lived in the areas.

What history of Acorn Ridge is available says the Stoddard County community was founded in the early 1800's and was once a bustling town -- with four grocery stores, three blacksmiths, two doctors, a barber shop, saw mill and grist mill.

It was a popular stop for travelers going from western Stoddard County to Bloomfield.

The town's Methodist Church was founded, after a family named Tweedy donated an acre of land in 1893. A modern church stands today on the same spot of land.

But, today, when people think Acorn Ridge they think of strawberries or peaches -- very seldom do they think of acorns.

Veterans Failing To Take Free Schooling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between three and four million veterans of the Vietnam war era have failed to pick up a $6,300 educational windfall waiting for them, Veterans Administration statistics show.

In an effort to induce veterans to use programs to acquire an education or improve job skills, the American Association of Junior Colleges and the American Legion have organized Veterans Outreach, a program to contact each returning veteran and make him aware of the opportunity.

After World War II the GI bill provided tuition, books and a living allowance for veterans, which increased if they were married. The present veterans law pays $175 a month for a maximum of 36 months, or $6,300 total, to attend school or get on-job training. There are bills pending in Congress to up the ante to at least $200 a month.

Since 1965, more than 5.5 million veterans eligible for educational benefits have been discharged, the association said, but only about two million have used them.

Educational benefits are the legal right of every veteran for eight years after discharge, the AAJC said, but because of the law's wording any veteran, even one discharged as far back as Jan. 31, 1955, has until May 31, 1974, to pick up the benefits.

The association-Legion program will work this way: The legion will provide 400 junior colleges with the names of servicemen discharged each month in their area. Schools using vet-students will contact each returning GI and urge him to come to the school for counseling and testing.

Dr. John P. Mallan, director of program services and veterans at the association's headquarters, said about 72,000 men are released from the services each month.

Mallan estimates that 20 per cent of returning servicemen are not high school graduates and that another 30 per cent are in need of some formal education or training to qualify for civilian jobs.

GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY

End To Secrecy In Government Sought

JEFFERSON CITY -- A major public interest organization today announced the kick- off of a statewide petition drive that would, if ratified by the voters in the November General Election, open the meetings of any public governmental body to the public and also would require that the votes of public officials be fully and accurately recorded.

The Citizen's Lobby, headed by Carl M. Wilson, chairman, and Raymond A. Appleton, director, is distributing petitions to civic groups and thousands of individuals in all of Missouri's 10 congressional districts in an attempt to secure the necessary signatures to place the constitutional amendment on the November ballot. More than 92,000 signatures must be gathered from seven of the ten congressional districts, representing at least eight per cent of the number of persons who voted in the last Gubernatorial election.

In a statement issued today, Wilson said he felt the petition drive "is one of the single most important issues facing the citizens of Missouri during this crucial election year."

"The State Legislature has chosen to bypass this issue for reasons best known to the individual legislators who opposed a bill similar to the proposed amendment during the last session. It is now up to the people of this state tod ecide whether they want laws affecting them in their everyday lives to be decided behind closed doors," Wilson said.

The required amount of signatures must, by law, be submitted to the Secretary of State no later than July 6, 1972, four months before the November general election. Wilson urged every concerned citizen in the state to sign the petitions and "do everything humanly possible to see that the voters are given a chance to psss this vital issue in November."

The proposed constitutional amendment defines a public governmental body as being supported in whole or in part by public funds or which expends public funds, and also includes any agency, board, bureau, commission, committee, department, division, or subdivision of any branch of state government, county, municipality, and school district.

The proposed legislation, however, would not affect judges or juries in the deliberation of a verdict, or certain litigation which would violate the civil rights of any individual, Wilson explained. He added that several legislators, civic and professional groups, have endorsed the proposed amendment.

Wilson stated, "Although many private citizens have already financially assisted this petition drive, additional funds are still needed to continue effectively.

"We have launched our statewide petition drive to eliminate the secrecy that has clouded and colored many of the decisions that have been made not only at the state level, but also by our school boards, city councils and other major policy making bodies at all levels of government," he added.

Wilson stressed that the petition drive is being conducted "on a completely non- partisan basis," and urged all citizens of Missouri to "demand and work for an end to the kind of governmental secrecy that has for many years been detrimental to the conduct of good, efficient and honest government."

He continued, "The presence of the public must be felt at all governmental meetings in which legislation and policies are decided upon which affect us all. There is no doubt that any decision made under the public eye will tend to be far more objective, and certainly less apt to be made ir order to serve the selfish interests of some special economic groups applying pressure to influence our laws."

While the petitions are currently being circulated throughout the state, Wilson suggested that any citizen or organization wishing to help in this effort should contact the Citizen's Lobby by mail at P. O. Box 833, Jefferson City, or by phone at area code 314 635-0121.

Burlison Denounces Gunplay

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Rep. Bill D. Burlison, in a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives, Tuesday, denounced the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

The Congressman from Missouri's 10th District said:

"Yesterday's attempted assassination of Governor George C. Wallace, a leading contender for the Democratic nomination for President, marks a turning back of the clock in a most tragic fashion. We have all prayed that the loss of the Kennedys and Martin Luther King, Jr. to the assassin's bullet in the 1960's marked the end of a chaotic and murderous political epidemic in American political life. We had hopes of a more healthful climate for the decade of the '70's. Apparently, this was not to be.

"All decent people mourn this tragedy. Not only do we sympathize with the Kennedys, Kings and Wallaces. The real concern must be for the very spirit and moral fiber of our system. It epitomizes the decay of our system, or our people, or both.

"It is difficult to prescribe a remedy inasmuch as the cause remains so elusive. Is the problem connected with a breakdown in our legal system and more specifically that of criminal law? Our constitution is said to call for "speedy justice". Yet it can be convincingly argued on the basis of past examples that his murder or attempt thereof will not be prosecuted, tried and appealed with either "speed"or "justice" to society. It might be argued perhaps with equal sincerity and rationale that the cause is more intangible and lies in our refusal to give necessary attention to the sociological components of our society.

"Mr. Speaker, it is not my purpose here, nor is there time, to explore the reason for our sickness. Suffice it to say that it is absolutely essential that we recongize that the sickness indeed does exist. Let us not pause nor rest until we have found the cause or causes and then call upon all the scientific, social and politcal ingenuity at our disposal to apply the remedies. If each of us will accept such a commitment, I can then see a bright and shining national future emerging from the dawn. But if we refuse the commitment, it is my fear that our nation may be in its twilight, slowly submerging into darkness, that signals the end."

Going To College No Guarantee Of Good Job

NEW YORK (AP) — "Go to college son, get a good education and you'll always have a good job." That counsel has been given to millions of young Americans.

The assumption is made that a good education equals a good white-collar job and security, while a poor education means much less pay in a blue-collar job and a much greater likelihood of unemployment.

Shrewd observers of employment trends now realize that while this is often so, it isn't necessarily so. Blue-collar workers are capable of making "big" money, while some professionals are without jobs.

Moreover, as mobile Americans seek to scramble up the ladder via education, the competition for professional and technical jobs might grow stiffer, perhaps even leaving less competition for more menial jobs.

In the three years from February 1969 to February 1972, according to the Labor Department regional office here, unemployment among professional and technical workers rose far more rapidly than among all workers.

It isn't that the opportunities aren't opening up, it says. The real explanation is that each year there are many more people trained for these jobs, making it possible for employers to be choosy.

The Labor Department cites figures which indicate that during the 1970s some 10.5 million persons will be seeking jobs typically held by college grads. However, the growth of job opportunities for them will total only 10.4 million.

This close balance between supply and demand, it is expected, will probably produce a job market heavily in the favor of employers.

Suppose the applicant is successful. What then is likely to be the determining factor in continued upward mobility or advancement? According to a University of Michigan professor, it could be a stable marriage.

John E. Tropman, social work professor, measured the advancement of 6,000 males between the ages 45 and 54. The men who progressed the furthest, he found, were those who had remained married to their first wives.

The second most successful group was those who had remarried. And far behind, he says, were the men who had been divorced, separated or who had become widowers.

Strike Hurts Interstate Sales

KANSAS CITY -- Sales and earnings for Interstate Brands Corporation for the 16 weeks ended Apr. 22, 1972 were adversely affected by a strike at one of the corporation's largest plants, according to the first quarter report issued today by Ernest B. Hueter, president and chief executive officer.

Net income for the quarter was $800,130, a decrease of $347,821 from the $1,147,951 reported for the same period a year ago. Earnings per share were 34 cents compared with 49 cents a year earlier.

Despite the strike, sales reached $85,912,708 -- up from $79,832,899 -- an increase of $6,079,804 for 1972.

"The decline in earnings is attributable primarily to a strike of 26 days' duration at our large Emporia, Kans., cake plant which distributes products from the Canadian border to Texas," Hueter said.

"Also contributing to the decline were increased operating costs, principally labor, without sufficient offsetting price increases." Mr. Hueter explained that, while the Price Commission approved reasonable price increases for a number of markets served by Interstate, the company was not able to effect some of these authorized increases because of competitive reasons.

The 1970 census differed from all previous census takings in that Americans were counted by mail. This was the first time a 10-year census made extensive use of the mail.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Humphrey All-Out To Bag California

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA)

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's strangely limited, high-risk presidential campaign strategy is puzzling some veteran Democratic politicians here in the West and around the nation.

Though aides to Sen. George McGovern still fear some kind of last-minute Humphrey effort in the May 23 Oregon primary, the Minnesota senator's schedule indicates heavy concentration on California from here on.

The rationale for ignoring Oregon and handing it to McGovern is, of course, simply that the vote prize for victory in this primary is only 34 national convention delegates.

While some party leaders accept that rationale, most are astonished at Humphrey's seeming abandonment of a full-fledged campaign for the 278 delegate votes in New York (248 to be chosen in the year's last primary on June 20).

This really means that Humphrey is risking all his chips on the June 6 California test, where 271 votes go at one stroke to the winner of the statewide plurality.

This strategy contrasts notably with earlier Humphrey reasoning. There was a time when he talked of waiting out the early tests and plunging into the "late ones"—in which category he placed Oregon, California and New York.

The peril in this much more selective approach in May and June is obvious. He could do reasonably well in the quest for New Jersey's 109 delegate votes in a primary the same day as California's. But otherwise he does not seem to be building toward real backup strength in the event his California bid fails.

Here is the argument given by a top Humphrey manager for not making an all-out effort for New York's massive delegate bag:

"In New York, the candidates' names are not on the ballot. It is not a measure of popularity . . . If the names were on, we'd go in their with both hands and both feet."

New York indeed does not have a preference test, nor can delegate candidates indicate their presidential choices on the ballot. But those choices can be advertised in the media, and McGovern will be doing just that with the slates he has filed in 37 of the state's 39 congressional districts.

The quoted Humphrey manager observes that in New York some delegate prospects have filed who are either uncommitted or favorable to other candidates (Muskie, Chisholm, Jackson). Some of these are rated friendly to Humphrey, and if victorious on June 20, are considered possible Humphrey votes should he meantime win California. But in some districts McGovern people are unopposed.

To gauge Humphrey today, you have to set the New York decision alongside the one on Oregon and the failure of the Humphrey forces to establish a vigorous organizational presence in the mountain states.

One western Democrat well acquainted with all this territory finds this inactivity baffling. Some Humphrey staff people are themselves saying privately it has been a mistake not to contest more heavily in these and many other nonprimary states.

Humphrey doesn't say it, but he really is counting on the politics of magic—of winning California and a few other key places and hoping these triumphs will spread a contagion across the country that will flood out McGovern's nationwide grass roots labors.

Scouts Undergo Modernization

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Say goodbye to the old Boy Scouts. Come September they'll be known only as Scouts and many will be sporting bright red berets.

Cub Scout den mothers also will get a new look that includes miniskirts and hot pants as official uniforms.

The Scouts, in convention here, are not only modernizing the uniform, but initiating major changes that will give Scouts a new im ge and more leadership responsibility that is intended to better prepare them for urban life.

The traditional Boy Scout Handbook is being rewritten to reflect contemporary life and problems. Scouts in the inner city will be taught how to treat rat bites as well as snake bites and how to negotiate a subway system as well as a mountain trail.

"If Scouting is to make the kind of contribution to this country over the next decade that it has for the past 60 years, it must be sensitive to the real needs of our youth everywhere," said Alden G. Barber, national chief scouting executive.

More than 4,000 Scout executives were here for the week-long 62nd annual convention.

The word "Boy" is being dropped because a two-year study found that youths were being turned off by it, a Scout official said. The organization, however, will retain the name Boy Scouts of America.

The study also found that Scouts wanted a more modern uniform, more decision-making responsibility and a more flexible system of advancement.

The red beret is already being worn by some inner city troops and its use will be optional. A troop may elect to wear the field cap or even the traditional Smokey-the-Bear hat. The scouting spokesman said, "I have a hunch the beret is going to be very popular."

The neckerchief also becomes optional wear in favor of a casual open collar and the trousers are being restyled along contemporary lines without the red piping on the pockets. Scouts 14 and 15 years old can elect to wear Explorer-type green uniforms instead of khaki.

The merit badges are being redesigned so that all will be oval and Scouts not interested in camping can pick from such fields as atomic energy, water skiing, railroading and radiotelevision.

Bragg City Gets First Tax Money

BRAGG CITY — Gas tax money, payable to Bragg City in Pemiscot County, has been accumulating in the Missouri State Treasury since 1962 and a check owed to the community has finally found its way home.

State Rep. Vic Downing, upon request by Carl A. Norfleet, supervisor of the Bureau of County Tax, delivered a check to Douglas Bowling, city treasurer of Bragg City, for $12,179.23.

The reason Bragg City has not been receiving its gas tax money, although incorporated, the town has not had any elected officials since 1931—that is until the city elections April 4 when residents of the town finally elected city officials again.

In 1962 Missouri adopted a sharing plan where cities of 200 or more population receive a part of gasoline tax revenue collected by the state. But because Bragg City had no city officials then, there was no one for the state to pay. A revenue official asked the state attorney then if he could ignore Bragg City. The answer was no. So in Jefferson City, when Bragg City's gasoline tax allocation was figured each six months, a data processing card was pulled from the computer and a red line drawn through the words Bragg City and a note of "no check" was made on the card. This procedure has now come to an end.

Bragg City abandoned city officials this way. In the late 1920s, Bragg City approved an $8,000 bond issue to dig a water well. The well was started but on May 15, 1931, the Bank of Bragg City, which held the city's money, closed its doors, as did many banks during the depression.

The city was unable to meet its obligation and defaulted on the bonds. The mayor and all other city officials resigned. Since that time, the town has never elected any new officials fearing that, should it do so, the bonding company would bring suit for its money.

But now, almost 41 years later to the day, Bragg City's new government will get a boost with the check, representing a big step in their come back.

In the city elections April 4, Jerry Jackson was elected the town's first mayor in over 40 years when he polled 48 votes. Bryan Harwell and Harry Gurlen Jr. were elected north ward aldermen with 24 and 2 votes respectively and Ackland Hanks and Douglas Bowling were elected south ward aldermen with 21 and 23 votes respectively.

All the city officials elected were unopposed for office.

Hanks, one of the south ward aldermen, commented he thought it was a good thing for Bragg City to receive the money but he didn't know what the town would do with it.

"We'll probably put the money in the bank," he said. "Bragg City is pretty well run down and there's not much to build toward."

Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma Border Marker Seldom Seen

GALENA, Kan. (AP) — Almost hidden down the tree-lined gravel road, but within sound of the Will Rogers Turnpike traffic, is the seldom-seen marker that locates the intersection of three states.

It took the Army five and one-half months to find the exact spot more than a century ago. It was two-thirds of a century later before the government built the monument that now is seldom seen.

Today, three of the markers on the four-sided monument have been taken off. The fourth one--which is believed to have given the date the southern edge of Kansas was surveyed in 1957--has been broken and is partly gone.

Broken glass and empty beer and pop cans are strewn along the base of the monument, dropped by persons who came here.

The monument itself is sturdy. It is a 10-foot native rock monument located a few feet off the gravel road which winds off from U.S. 166 at the corner of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Actually, the monument is 50 feet west of the exact junction because this junction was found to be in the center of the roadway.

A farmhouse is located just a short distance from the marker.

And although thousands of cars and trucks speed past on the nearby turnpike in northeast Oklahoma there is no indication of the monument. Unless you knew where to go, it would not be found.

In 1856, Congress ordered a survey of the southern boundary of the Kansas Territory. Records show the southern boundary followed the 37th parallel north, extending west from the western boundary of Missouri.

A military survey party commenced the job May 1, 1857, and work was completed Oct. 29 that year.

House Probes Staging Of Television News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pickled sea animals, kids drinking "pop wine," sales of dynamite, and a governor's special speech for a late-arriving film crew figure in a House probe into the degree of staged TV news.

These are examples of what sworn witnesses described Thursday as public deceptions in telecast news.

"It's our job to police this (broadcasting) industry and make it a better industry," said Chairman Harley P. Staggers, D-W.Va., of the House Commerce Committee.

In two days of hearings, a Staggers' investigating subcommittee has heard testimony and focused on West-Coast and national-network operations.

All but one of the nine persons appearing under oath Thursday talked about the Columbia Broadcasting System and the CBS-owned Los Angeles station, KNXT. The other witness, Loren Colwell, security agent for the Los Angeles city school districts, complained about the way an American Broadcasting Co. crew from KABC, Los Angeles, covered a student protest in 1970.

Past and present CBS or KNXT cameramen and soundmen were among the chief witnesses. The name of CBS correspondent Terry Drinkwater came up in connection with a 1970 dynamite-buying story and a 1971 program about the popularity of so-called "pop wine" among the young in California.

A CBS spokesman said newsstaging practices are against network policy, and added Drinkwater has been suspended by CBS news for a total of six months without pay because of the dynamite and wine stories.

Stanley Haberlach, of Portland, Ore., a dynamite distributor, said a purchase sequence filmed at his store and carried on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite "was strictly staged throughout the whole thing." CBS soundman Floyd Jack Reynolds also said it was staged.

Roy Gardner of Las Vegas, Nev., former contract soundman with CBS, said his crew arrived late in Bedford, Ind., for a speech by then-Gov. Roger Branigin of Indiana during the 1968 presidential primary.

The governor went along with the crew's request that he repeat a few minutes of his speech for the benefit of the TV camera, Gardner said. "He started when the light went on and stopped when the light went off," Gardner said.

KNXT soundman Donald Keener said pickled sea animals obtained from a university lab were filmed in 1968 with the implication they were water pollution victims.

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. (AP) — An old Japanese proverb goes, "Many paths ascend Mount Fuji, but at the peak one sees the same moon."

As a result of this reasoning, many Japanese list affiliation with more than one religion, a practice that statistically makes Christianity seem more widespread there than it actually is, writes the Rev. Morgan Vittengl in Maryknoll magazine.

Coon Dog Trial Ends In Out Of Court Settlement

VIENNA, Ill. (AP) — The great coon hound trial that has enthralled this Southern Illinois community for months ended today with an out-of-court settlement.

V. I. Johns of Creel Springs and Lee Faulkner of Vienna each claimed custody of a prize-winning dog, but a long court battle with the hound nearly always present in the packed Circuit Court room ended in a hung jury in February.

A new trial was to start today. But the costs were mounting and a settlement was made. Johns agreed to pay Faulkner $1,000 for the hound.

Faulkner had claimed he lost the dog while hunting in 1968. Johns contended he bought the dog in Indiana.

Faulkner said he never suspected Johns of theft, but thought Johns bought the dog from someone who had stolen or found it.

Gravity Is Essential

Nothing "holds up" an orbiting satellite. Gravity keeps the satellite in orbit by pulling down on it. Without gravity, the satellite would shoot off into space in a straight line.

What's The Law?

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

If ignorance was bliss, Billy was in heaven. The only thing he knew was to run around with a wild bunch of kids and to sow his wild oats. When he tried to sow another kind of seed, however, a marijuana seed, his bliss blistered into trouble with the law. He was picked up by a couple of detectives and charged with illegally possessing marijuana.

Battling the case in court, Billy rested his defense on a technicality.

"My arrest was premature, " he argued, "since I didn't have any marijuana. What I had was marijuana seeds. And, since anybody knows that the most ambitious seed can go to pot, I might never have had any marijuana. Consequently, I can't be convicted."

"It's a good argument," conceded the prosecuting attorney, " but it won't work. The evil of marijuana is in the seed. And, to try to distinguish between the seed and the plant is like trying to separate Dr. Jedyll from Mr. Hyde. It simply can't be done. Consequently, Billy's guilty as charged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Billy of illegally possessing marijuana?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that marijuana seeds do not contain a narcotic substance and cannot be used in the usual way to obtain a narcotic substance and cannot be used in the usual way to obtain a narcotic effect. Therefore, possessing marijuana seeds does not amount to possessing marijuana illegally. (Based upon a 1966 Arizona Supreme Court Decision)

Move Helps Avoid Allergens

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am pleased to discover you in Toronto's new Sun, for I enjoy reading your column. I developed an allergy in 1956. I am allergic to ragweed trees, grass, molds, and house dust. The desensitization injections have not been successful and I have had four asthma attacks, and subsequent hospitalizations since the spring of 1970. My seasonal allergies have become a year-round asthma problem. The doctor advises that I relocate to a drier and more steady climate. Since ragweed is my main problem I am contemplating moving to Okanagan Valley in British Columbia on a temporary trial basis. According to a booklet from the Canadian government this area is ragweed free. Although Arizona is supposedly an ideal climate I am not sure the high temperatures would be agreeable with me for I prefer a moderate climate. I am 45 and asthma and blood pressure are traditional in my family.

Dear Reader—First may I say that I am pleased to welcome you and the other new readers of Toronto's new Sun.

Individuals who have allergic asthma often do better in a climate free of the allergen. If your problem is simply ragweed, your move would benefit you. In general the areas of the world free from ragweed are almost anywhere west of the Rockies, high altitudes such as the mountains in Colorado, Wyoming, the southern tip of Florida, Europe and South America.

You also say you have trouble with grass and tree pollen. Individuals with these problems often don't gain much by a change in climate. The best approach is to test your planned new area.

Individuals allergic to household pets and animal products sometimes improve markedly by eliminating pets, feather pillows, and items containing animal substances. Individuals who have house dust problems should eliminate things that contribute to collecting dust. This includes stripping your bedrooms of carpeting, getting rid of drapes and heavy furniture, and maintaining careful cleaning. It might be well to have one room in the house that is relatively bare. Use it to isolate yourself from house dust.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

My cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life. (Psalm 23: 5-6)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for fresh hope and new insights that make it impossible for life to grow stale for those who love Thee. May we live each day with bright expectancy, praying as Thy Son, our Savior, taught us: "Our Father, who art in heaven . . . Amen."

RAY CROMLEY

Dope, Gambling Are Crime Keys

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

A number of private and government studies now seem agreed no real dent in crime in this country can be achieved until illegal gambling and heroin can be brought under control.

Illicit gambling brings $20 billion a year to finance the syndicates and bankroll loansharking, the infiltration of legitimate business, prostitution and a host of other illegal pursuits.

The process snowballs. Loanshark victims are pressured into theft and hijacking. Infiltrated "legitimate" firms are used for distributing stolen goods.

One recent study says flatly the criminal justice system's inability to curb urban crime can, in many respects, be attributed to heroin addiction. Some criminal court judges have found that 75 per cent of all the cases they try involve defendants with a history of heroin use.

It is not news that many, perhaps most, heroin users must turn to crime to support their habit.

But with these conclusions on gambling and heroin at hand, it is strikingly evident that, to date, very little headway has been made in drying up either.

Several states have experimented with legalized lotteries, off-track betting and other forms of government-controlled gambling. Thus far there is no convincing evidence these states are successfully competing with the numbers men and other syndicate types. For one, no way has been found whereby the state can match the handy neighborhood runner, the ease of credit (backed by enforcers) and the secrecy of the illegitimate operator (which permits tax evasion).

Probably more concentrated attacks on the crime syndicates have been carried out these past few years than at any time in the past. Arrests have reached new records. But there is no indication that snydicate strength has been sapped.

The studies suggest, in fact, that the underworld is growing in power.

The heroin situation is no brighter. Despite some highly-skilled police work, nationally and internationally, some brilliant diplomatic negotiations with Turkey, Laos, France and other lands, and truly extensive penetration of some international heroin syndicates, there is no sign the drug traffic is broken or going into a decline.

All this is true despite the strategically sensible decision to concentrate on the major syndicates and on finding the weak links in those syndicates. Thus the effor has not been spread overly thin by going after ever, pusher and user, which would have been like dippir, water out of the ocean with a teaspoon.

What we must have now is a highly-concentrated research effort, comparable with sending a man to the Moon, aimed at discovering just what would be effective in breaking up illegal gambling and the heroin trade.

Should this research cost $50 billion over the next decade, it would, if successful, be cheap "at double the price." For, as noted above, illegal gambling and heroin alone add up to an estimated $26 billion a year and provide the base for other crimes costing the citizen several tens of billions of dollars a year additionally in direct costs and more billions in public and private police and other protective services.

Heeb Will Talk To Chaffee Seniory

CHAFFEE — Dr. Max A. Heeb, Sikeston surgeon, a graduate of Chaffee High School class of 1945, will give the commencement address to 51 CHS seniors tonight at the gymnasium.

Dr. Heeb will be introduced by board of education member Charles Vickery, Jr. His address is titled, "What's New Here."

Dr. Heeb is the son of the late Arthur Heeb and Mrs. Margaret Heeb, 111 West Parker Ave.

He is married to the former Marianna Crego, of Creve Coeur, and they are the parents of three children.

Dr. Heeb completed his undergraudate college work at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in 1949, with a bachelor of science degree, in science, magna cum laude. He holds a B.S. degree in Medicine from the University of Missouri in Columbia. He received his doctor of medicine degree from Washington University in St. Louis, graduating cum laude in 1953.

Dr. Heeb did his internship and residency in surgery at The Jewish Hospital, St. Louis from 1953-58. He was assistant resident surgeon from 1954-57 and chief resident surgeon 1957-58.

He joined the Ferguson

Dr. Max Heeb

Medical Group in Sikeston in 1959.

He is a member of the Alpha Omega medical honorary society and his professional societies include: Fellow of American College of Surgeons; Member of American Medical Association; Member of Missouri State and SEMO County Medical Society; Diplomat of American Board of Surgery; Member of St. Louis Surgical Society.

Dr. Heeb is serving as chief of staff of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, a position he has held since 1970. He is a surgical consultant at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Other professional appointments include: member of board of governors, University of Missouri Medical Alumni Association; councillor, Missouri chapter, American College of Surgeons; Liaison Fellow, Commission on Cancer, American College of Surgeons, district 4, Missouri.

Besides these professional boards and hospital staff duties he has had surgical papers published in medical journals.

Dr. Heeb is serving his first three- year elective term on the Sikeston board of education and has been chosen vice president of the board.

TV Look At Oversupply Of Graduates

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost a million young men and women on more than 2,000 college campuses are graduating this season. Many will have a tough time finding jobs for which they have prepared.

Last year, according to a state senator, Michigan had 10,000 certified teachers who could not find jobs. A young married man in Pennsylvania who received a degree in economics six months ago is delivering newspapers for $70 a week. In Rochester, N.Y., a man with an engineering degree is working as a department store security guard. And a man with a Ph.D. in American history is jockeying cars in a parking garage—he has received, he said, "no good responses to more than 300 letters he sent to colleges in search of a teaching job.

These are a few examples of the many cited in a "CBS Reports" hour to be broadcast tonight from 7 to 8 p.m. EDT. Called "Higher Education: Who Needs It?" the program is worth a thoughtful look by college students, present and potential, and by their parents.

Reporter Hughes Rudd and a camera crew interviewed an assortment of educators and students. They found everywhere what one college administrator called "the oversupply problem"—too many applicants with degrees for too few jobs requiring them.

The program was not all on the negative side, however. Rudd found the nation has an enormous shortage of trained people for jobs that do not require college degrees. An executive of one of the big three car manufacturing companies said his corporation needs 20,000 trained automotive mechanics right now—and estimated the national need at more than 100,000.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., Rudd visited Ferris State College, which specializes in vocational education, turning out trained technicians and mechanics who receive starting salaries of $9,000 to $12,000. The college president noted that "there isn't a licensed plumber" in the city, but said he had a list of 300 applicants with master's and doctoral degrees.

Specialists and experts interviewed persistently knocked down what Rudd called "an article of faith"—that a college degree is a passport to success, money and the better life.

The program, seen by this writer at a preview, makes its points in cool, unemotional style. It is a special program for a special audience, and might be effective in changing some parental attitudes about the necessity of college and in shifting the goals of some young people.

David Canary, who played Candy, a friendly cowboy on the Ponderosa for two seasons starting in 1967, will return to his role in "Bonanza" in September. Another "major character" will be introduced later in the season. The casting is to help fill the gap left by the death of costar Dan Blocker.

Computer Studies Pep Pill Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beneath the streets of Washington, a whirring computer is scanning 70,000 punch cards in search of an answer that will profoundly affect the multimillion-dollar anti-fat business and its varied clientele.

The $40,000 pilot project is designed to settle once and for all whether pep pills, or amphetamines, and other anti-obesity drugs are safe and effective for weight reduction, in light of their widespread abuse.

The computer's work is scheduled to be completed by June 1, with the government's final decision due a month later.

"It will provide the most important facts," said an attorney for the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, which must set amphetamine-production quotas for next year.

The 1972 quotas, the first since amphetamines were brought under the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act, slashed legal production 82 per cent below last year's total of 10.2 tons of amphetamines and 5.4 tons of the more powerful methamphetamines.

An estimated 20 to 50 per cent of 1971 production was diverted to the youthful drug subculture, truck drivers and students trying to stay awake and athletes striving for superior performance.

The drugs suppress appetite and stimulate the central nervous system.

Medical Help Given New Madrid And East Prairie

NEW MADRID — New Madrid will get two doctors, two nurses and a laboratory technician July 1 under the National Health Service Corps, according to information received from Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton and Congressman Bill Burlison.

The medical team will be housed in the Femmer Building in the 700 block of Main Street, the same building vacated by the New Madrid Medical Group, according to Dr. Sam Hedgepeth, chairman of a Chamber of Commerce medical committee which initiated the effort to bring medical personnel here.

Announcement the medical personnel coming came after New Madrid was designated by the federal government as eligible for low cost treatment by federal doctors, nurses and dentists. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the program will be financed under the 1970 Emergency Health Personnel Act.

There is one medical doctor in New Madrid, a town of 2,719 population and one doctor of osteopathy in East Prairie, a town of 3,275.

Under the National Health Service plan, the doctors will set up their practice here and will operate as if in private practice, the patients paying the prevailing rate for visits. The medical personnel are paid through NHSC and any surplus, after paying of all office expenses, reverts to the NHSC.

Work on getting doctors began soon after the three in the medical group here moved away, when Sam L. Hunter, president of the Bank of New Madrid took steps in recruiting.

The Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, a branch of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, became interested in the problem and Moody Summitt, its executive secretary, began steps that led to getting medical personnel.

Summitt, Bill Cooper of Noranda Aluminum, Inc., and Dr. Hedgepeth attended a meeting in Jefferson City, heard the NHSC program and made application for consideration of the New Madrid- East Prairie area, since East Prairie was seeking a doctor of osteopathy and one has been approved.

The Difference

Touch football differs from regular football in that the ball carrier can be "downed" merely by touching him. It can be played by any number of players and on a field of almost any size.

DENNY McLAIN throws one of his last pitches for the Oakland A's before they sent him to the minor leagues.

Blue Loses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here comes Vida Blue. Oops—there goes Vida Blue.

Oakland's illustrious lefthander made his long-awaited debut Wednesday night, but he didn't make it very good.

Pitching one inning of relief in a biref warmup for his first start, Blue gave up two hits and two walks and took the defeat as the California Angeles beat the A's 6-5.

"He had to be nervous," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "The first time out, he's got to have a lot of pressure on him."

Blue, a 24-game winner who claimed both the Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards last season in the American League, was a stubborn holdout this year and didn't sign his contract until several weeks of the season had elapsed. He's slowly peaking toward his first start this weekend.

In the other American League games Wednesday night, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Texas Rangers 51; the Minnesota Twins nudged the Kansas City Royals 1-0 in 12 innings; the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Boston Red Sox 4-1; the Detroit Tigers topped the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 and the New York Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2.

Blue got the call against California while sparse crowd of a little more than 3,000 at Oakland Coliseum applauded his entrance. The score was 4-4 when the stylish shouthpaw came in and threw four straight balls to Art Kusnyer.

Th en he fired a wild pitch, allowing Kusnyer to take second, before walking Sandy Alomar. Ken Berry and Vada Pinson followed with run-scoring singles, both solid shots.

Those two runs proved to be the winning margin, giving Don Rose his first major league victory. The young California pitcher entered the record books with a night' work that included a home run on the first pitch thrown to him in the big time. Only six others in the history of major league baseball have done it.

Rick Reichardt doubled home three runs to cap a five-run burst in the first inning that carried hot Chicago past Texas for its 12th victory in 13 games. Tom Bradley stopped the Rangers on four hits, including Dick Billings' ninth-inning home run.

Texas starter Bill Gogolewski was rached for five hits and all five runs in the White Sox' decisive rally.

Rod Carew's run-scoring simgle broke a scoreless tie in the 12th inning, lifting Minnesota over Kansas City. The single scored Danny Thompson, who had opened with a double off Dick Drago.

The rally gave the victory to Jim Kaat, who had pitched a five-hitter for 11 innings and worked out of tight squeezes in both the 10th and 11th. Wayne Granger pitched the final inning for the Twins to save Kaat's fifth victory in six games.

Andy Etchebarren's two-run single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning as Baltimore erased a one-run deficit and came back to beat Boston.

The Oriole rally was aided by an error by Red Sox second baseman Doug Griffin that allowed Terry Crowley to score from third with the tying run.

Harts; Elks Win

Harts Standard and Elks opened the Senior Babe Ruth season last night at V.F.W. Stadium with baseball victories.

For Harts Standard and its new coach Jim Saulters, it was a 5-0 shutout over Leible Implement.

Elks picked up the nightcap with a 6-1 win over Optimist Club.

In the first game, Harts put together an 11-hit attack, and checked the Leible offense to five base runners in the game off of three hits. Two-hit performances from Harts' Puckett, Hesslrode, Blankenship, and Hewitt powered the winner's offense.

Blankenship went the distance.

Three runs in the third inning put Harts ahead to stay. Two singles and two doubles in the inning combined with Leible errors to send the three runs home.

Leible's leadoff hitter, Collins, put together a two-hit night at the plate while teammate Ward added the only other safety. Walker went the distance for the loss.

Elks put together a timely five-hit attack in the nightcap to pick up the win over the Optimist Club. Elks' Colwick collected two of the winners five hits, and scored one run. First Baseman Johnson knocked a triple in the winners lineup.

An error and a hit in both the first and third innings sent the first two Elks runs home. A three-run scoring sixth frame widened the lead.

Both teams added one run in the final inning. Mitchell picked up the win and McDowell took the loss.

Faulkenberry For Congress
DEMOCRAT FOR 10th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

"VOTE FOR ME...I WON'T FORGET YOU."

The incumbent, Burlison, by his "grab for power" and placement of personal ambitions ahead of responsive representation of people who, through our regular democratic system, placed him in office, has put Democrat against Democrat. He has flaunted the Democratic Party and "overstepped" his position in a manner unprecedented by a Congressman. He has, in addition:
created distrust - when confidence is needed.
disappointed loyal workers - when inspiration is needed.
betrayed confidence - when trust is needed.
created division - when unity is needed.
Two more years "of the same" can come to no good. You deserve better!
Faulkenberry seeks only to serve all the people. He needs your support. Vote for a new voice, Faulkenberry, in the primary.

Sanguillen Does It

ST. LOUIS (AP) — While others yawned Wednesday night, Manny Sanguillen plugged away and prodded the surging Pittsburgh Pirates to a ninth straight triumph in the National League.

Sanguillen, hitting a lofty .366, sprayed four stright hits and triggered a five-run Pirates rally in the 14th inning carrying them past the sagging St. Louis Cardinals 9-4.

The Pirates' victory, their ninth in a row, lifted them four games back of the New York Mets in the NL East.

But it took 3 hours and 58 minutes, the league's longest game of the season, before they nailed the lid on the Cards, who dropped their 11th in 13 outings.

Sanguillen, who went 5 for 8 in the marathon, singled his first time at bat, then went hitless until igniting a two-run Pirates ninth with a double.

St. Louis battled back to tie 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, then the Pirates' tireless catcher singled in the 10th and 12th preceding the winning explosion.

Following Richie Hebner's walk, Sanguillen singled up the middle to put runners on second and third with none out.

Gene Alley hit a grounder to Joe Torre that brought across the first of five runs when Torre's throw to the plate hit the sliding Hebner on the head.

After winning pitcher Bob Miller (2-1) bounced out, Dave Cash drove in Sanguillen and Alley with a single and the Pirates completed the surge on another hit, a walk and Al Oliver's two-run single.

A Pirates attack included 19 hits for the long contest, but the night belonged to the peppery Sanguillen, a spray hitter totaling five hits in one game, a first for him in the majors.

"I think he's the best in baseball," remarked Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon, who was ejected in the third inning during an altercation with plate umpire Bruce Froemming.

"He's liable to hit any pitch he can reach," Virdon added. "I was swinging at bad balls," the unorthodox Sanguillen acknowledged, "but I don't worry too much about it, really, just so I can hit the ball."

"You just pitch him any way, and he'll hit it," Cardinals catcher Ted Simmons said in amazement. "He has no regard for the strike zone. He hits what he sees."

The long contest also was punctuated by home runs off the bats of Simmons and the Pirates' Roberto Clemente.

Prep Baseball Final Saturday

LEMAY — Lafayette's Lancers make their fourth straight state tournament appearance Friday afternoon to seek their third straight baseball title. The semifinals open at Heine Meine Park.

Joining the defending champions will be St. Louis DeSmet, West Plains and Lee's Summit, none of which were among last year's finalists.

Lee's Summit brings into the weekend event a 16-0 victory over Hannibal in regional play while Lafayette enters the playoffs with a 7-0 thrashing of Kelly of Benton.

DeSmet edged Rosary, 4-3 and West Plains battled past Springfield Parkview, 1-0.

West Plains battles Lee's Summit at 1 p.m. and Lafayette goes against DeSmet at 3:30 p.m. with the winners meeting for the title Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The Lancers have been the team that has kept a Southeast Missouri team out of the finals for four straight seasons. Kelly of Benton was the latest victim.

Littell Undefeated; Owen's Bat Slumps

Kennett's Greg Buys continued to show improvement after a slow start in the Carolina Class A division of the baseball minor leagues last week.

The husky righthander had a 12 earned run average after the first week of action but has lowered that mark to 6. Buys is 1-4 for the season, pitching 27-innings, allowing 32 hits, walking 18 and striking out 22.

Mark Littell, the five-figure bonus star of the Kansas City Royals from Gideon, is undefeated this season. The hardthrowing righthander is 2-0, working 29 innings, allowing 15 hits, walking 12 and striking out 34. He has a 2.17 earned run average after working six innings, allowing three hits, four walks and fanning seven last week.

He has appeared in four games for the Waterloo, Iowa Royals in the Midwest Class A division.

Sikeston's Gary Owens went 0 for 6 last week and saw his season mark crumble to a .200 average. He's five of 25 for the season with three runs, one double and one run batted in.

Jane Hart Holds Tax To Protest War

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The wife of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says she has refused to make any more payments on her income tax as a protest against the Vietnam war, Booth Newspapers said in a copyright story from their Washington bureau.

The eight Michigan newspapers reported Monday that Jane Hart wrote the Internal Revenue Service on May 10, saying she will not make any more payments. She told the IRS she is "ready to accept any sanctions that apply," the newspapers reported.

Mrs. Hart, heir to a Detroit manufacturing fortune, said she did not include a check for $6,200 in estimated tax payments when she made her quarterly filing on her estimated taxes.

"I cannot contribute one more dollar toward the purchase of more bombs and bullets," she wrote the IRS. "As a citizen, I feel the kind of desperation that decent Germans must have felt in the '30s."

Sen. Hart said he agreed with his wife's stand on the war but not on her stand about paying taxes.

Emphysema Detection Test Reported

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two California physicians have reported development of a simple, accurate test to identify potential victims of emphysema before their lungs are damaged.

Emphysema, a respiratory disease, is caused by a genetic defect inherited from both parents. If only one parent is involved, the disorder is less likely to occur but more difficult to diagnose.

Drs. Jack Lieberman and Charles Mittman of the City of Hope Medical Center at Duarte, Calif., reported the new test 90 per cent accurate in identifying the one in 20 persons with the potential of developing emphysema.

The doctors reported to the annual meeting of the American Thoracic Society here a chemical protein called alpha-lantirypsin (AAT) which is in the blood of persons who have inherited the defect is easily identified by laboratory test.

Blood containing AAT, when mixed with an antibody preparation, develops a double-ring design when placed in a laboratory dish.

Shawan: Small Rural Settlement

DEXTER — Driving along Route Y, approximately six miles southeast of Bell City you will pass a little country church known as Garden Ridge General Baptist Church, Hunter's Gin and a large grocery and general merchandise store operated by Glen Childers.

And the name of the community is Shawan, another settlement that is a part of the county's history, complete with a school house that has been remodeled and serves as the Garden Ridge parsonage.

The store was owned and operated for several years by Ray Bridges who sold the business in July of last year to Childers. The gin is operated by Sonny Hunter.

The history of the church can be traced back to April 15, 1923, when 27 persons came "to the recently built (Shawan) schoolhouse to discuss organizing a Sunday School."

The church records reveal that there were so many denominations represented that the name Garden Ridge Union Sunday School was selected and the church classes were held right in the school house.

The first Sunday School superintendent was Ben Wright; B. Rust Brown was treasurer; Mrs. Dora Smith, secretary; Mrs. Gusia Wells, chart teacher, Odessa Stafford (Mrs. Odessa Gibbs) was Junior teacher and Mrs. Louise Brown, Bible teacher.

The church was reorganized in 1947 and through the efforts of a 4-H Club the plans were began to build a church building.

The first service in the new church was held May 14, 1949, and then a year later, with school consolidation, the old Shawan School house was sold and the church bought it for a parsonage.

The present church pastor, Rev. Ervin Razer, has pastored the church for five years and he and his family have lived in the parsonage for the past two years. The schoolhouse - parsonage underwent extensive remodeling and redecorating a couple of years ago.

The store carried a complete line of merchandise for the area residents who now have their address as Rural Bell City and since school consolidation are a part of Bell City School District.

The gin is quiet now, but come the autumn months the Shawan community will undergo another change as the cotton starts "coming in".

The farming season is well underway in Shawan and the best time to see many of the residents there now is in the morning hour, after dark or a rainy day."

Such names as the Razers, the Carl Driskells, Ike Lincoln, Jim and Robert Scheeper families, and others are a part of the Shawan community, as well as some residents who live in Bell City.

Time has brought a change to what was the "old Shawan settlement" but to those who have lived there a long time, it is still Shawan with the mail delivery reading Rural Route 1, Bell City.

And, like so many "settlements" in Stoddard County one of the nicest things about it is the friendliness of its people.

Dentists Commended

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — Missouri dentists have been commended for providing dental work for persons unable to afford it.

The praise came Monday from Dr. C. Gordon Watson of Chicago, chief executive of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Watson applauded state dentists for their support of the Missouri Dental Service, a nonprofit prepayment system which has made it possible for lower and middle income families to obtain dental treatment.

Heart attack early warning signs often are felt in more than one part of the body. As indicated by shading on this drawing, the most common combination areas of pain are the chest and one or both arms.

Next to pain in chest and arms, the second most common combination of pain in heart attack is in the chest, neck and/or jaws. These are shown by shaded areas on this sketch.

Everyone Needs To Know Heart Attack Signs

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Are you a candidate for a heart attack?

Are you a man 40 or over? Do you smoke? Are you overweight? Do you have high blood pressure or a high cholesterol count? Do you work under pressure and get little exercise?

If your answer to most of those questions is ',yes", you are a statistically higher risk for a heart attack than those who can say "no".

Is a heart attack early warning signs educational program being conducted in a Missouri rural- urban area of about one million people directed only to these high risk candidates?

The answer here is an emphatic "no".

Financed by Heart Fund contributions of $16,000 for the first year, and $5,000 for the second, the education project is for everyone.

As age increases, women close the statistical gap with men as coronary candidates.

Young men also can be fatally stricken with unsuspected heart trouble, as reminded recently on the national scene by the death of a professional football player.

Moreover, universal need for knowledge of heart attack early warning signs is underscored by a six- month sampling of 77 heart attack patients at one Missouri hospital -- which showed an average delay of decision time of 18 hours.

National statistics show that about a third of heart attack patients do not survive to reach the hospital; most of these deaths occur in the first four hours.

This suggests that he who hesitates may be lost without a relative or friend to recognize or confirm heart attack early warning signs -- and then to act, to get medical aid or to get the victim to a hospital emergency room.

At a briefing before the Missouri early warning signs project was launched, a woman stood to volunteer the information that her husband suffered two days during a convention before discovering he was having a heart attack -- which he barely survived.

"If I had seen those early warning signs," she said, of TV slides which had just been previewed, "I would have known what was the matter."

Among reaction to newspaper articles listing the heart symptoms was that of a private telephone switchboard operator who remarked to a physician caller that she thought the articles were extremely important.

She said the articles had told her a great deal she had not learned during the 10 to 12 years since her husband had suffered a heart attack. His pain, she said, was in the upper neck and ears and in the center of the front of the chest,adding that "everyone is confused about heart pain being on the left side."

The Early Warning Signs Physicians' Advisory committee members stress that the heart is in the center of the front of the chest; that heart attack warnings occur most frequently there, with a feeling of pressure, fullness, squeezing or aching.

They say that the most common combination areas of pain are the chest and one or both arms; the chest and the neck and/or jaws.

They remind that pain also can occur in the abdomen or back; can occur simultaneiouslyy or gradually in all the areas; or any one.

Sweating, shortness of breath, nausea or vomiting may occur, the committee said.

In a reaction survey a month after the Missouri Heart Association project began, some doctors complained that young persons were calling in about chest pains. Others said it was a tribute to the news media that these people could be reached at a point in their life when such knowledge should be universal.

One man in his twenties, whose mother had endured for several days heart attack pain which was blamed on "indigestion", remarked:

"This is the kind of information we need to have while we are young so we can use it later."

Who needs early warning signs of heart attack? Everyone!

Takes No Crossing Action

DEXTER — The City of Dexter has never filed a formal complaint with the Missouri Public Service Commission regarding the lack of safety signals at the two railroad crossings in Dexter which have been the scene of accidents in recent months.

Despite complaints by city officials and despite numerous pleas to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, the city has never taken formal action with the state agency that has the power to regulate the railroads and the power to take legal steps to see that such unmarked intersections are marked, this newspaper learned.

Marvin E. Jones, Chairman of the Public Service Commission said that "no formal complaint" has been filed by the city regarding the two unmarked intersections. He added that a formal statement from the city would be required before the Public Service Commission could act.

The City of Dexter, through its Mayor and City Council has appealed by letter to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, but there are strong indications that these letters and appeals are being ignored.

The One Mile Road intersection and the Locust Street intersection have both been scenes of traffic accidents in recent months, and both are unmarked intersections. Both are within the city limits.

The Locust Street intersection, in downtown Dexter, was the scene of the latest such accident in which a Dexter man narrowly escaped death last Tuesday morning.

Night Dredging Ordered Halted

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Hillsborough County Environmental Protection Commission has ordered Potashnick Dredging Co. to stop immediately its clanging, banging nighttime dredging operations.

Al Danford, a dog breeder who lives near the Palm River Bridge, complained last week that dredging operations by the Cape Girardeau, Mo., firm have "just about given my wife a nervous breakdown" and cost him two litters of valuable dogs. He asked commissioners for a "permit to sleep."

The Board of County Commissioners, convening as the environmental protection commission, told the dredging company Monday to cease nighttime operations and take "immediate steps to reduce noise emissions" during daylight hours.

The order came on the recommendation of Dr. William A. Smith, a University of South Florida consulting engineer who ran a series of noise level tests from Danford's property during the weekend.

Smith wrote the commission that noise levels from the dredge were of such magnitude they caused "vibrations of loose articles of furniture of houseware and a sensation of vibrations of the internal organs of the body."

Danford put it more simply when he told the commissioners last week "the noise ... would just about drive you nuts."
